U. S. TROOPS ENTER RED CAPITAL

U.N. Unit OKs Plan To Keep World Peace

Only Russian Bloc Opposes Resolution

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 18 (AP) —A far-reaching veto-proof plan to stop aggression anywhere in the world, by force if necessary, was given overwhelming approval in the United Nations Political Committee today.

Delegates agreed that approval of the American-backed plan was the most important step forward the U. N. has taken since its founding five years ago.

Adoption was by a paragraph by paragraph vote which Committee Chairman Roberto Urdaneta Arbelaez of Colombia said constituted approval. Only the Soviet bloc opposed the key provisions of the resolution which is scheduled to receive formal committee approval as a whole tomorrow.

Sets Up "Peace Patrols"

The plan, first outlined by Secretary of State Dean Acheson Sept. 20, gives the General Assembly military power to combat aggression whenever the Security Council is hamstrung by a Russian veto. It sets up "peace patrols" to rove areas of tension and report on threats of peace there. It also gives any seven members of the Security Council power to call the General Assembly into session on 24-hours notice when the council fails in its task of maintaining peace and security.

U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles, who led the ten-day fight for adoption of the plan by the committee, said it was a result of the lessons the free world learned in the Korean conflict.

Plan Attacked By Vishinsky

American sources said the U. S. began during the summer to study ways and means of giving the U. N. power to act, despite Russian vetoes, when it saw U. N. action in Korea was possible only because the Soviet Union was then boycotting the Security Council.

This four-point resolution, co-sponsored by Britain, France, Canada, Turkey, the Philippines and Uruguay—was the result.

It was sharply attacked in committee by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky as "illegal," "bizarre" and a bare-faced attempt to violate the provisions of the U. N. charter which give the Security Council primary responsibility for maintaining world peace and security.

Knowland Demands Facts From Conferees

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — Government officials spread a report today that President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur had reached general agreement on the hot issue of Formosa — and a Republican critic of administration policy immediately demanded that the report be checked up to MacArthur.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) declared that the public should receive the facts directly from the General and President Truman rather than through "second hand leaks."

The developments followed President Truman's return home from his dramatic Wake island conference with MacArthur, during which they discussed Korea and other major matters. One of these was Formosa, on which the President and the General have not seen eye to eye.

Positions In Conflict

MacArthur has taken the position that the United States must make sure that this island off the China coast stays in friendly hands. He has pictured it as vital to the U. S. defenses. Mr. Truman has said that the long-range future of the island remains to be determined by international decision.

Soon after Mr. Truman flew home today, high officials met reporters at the Pentagon. Stipulating that their names must not be used, they said the Truman-MacArthur meeting resulted in general agreement on every issue discussed. The officials refused to say what the Formosa agreement was.

A few hours later Sen. Knowland issued a statement through the Republican National Committee. He noted that one news agency said the anonymous officials indicated that the President convinced Gen. MacArthur the "administration's policy of complete neutrality toward Formosa is the right one."

(The Associated Press reporters present did not understand the officials to give such an indication, and the AP did not carry it.)

Other Party Details Discussed

1. Plans for another amphibious landing in Korea have been abandoned because United Nations troops are moving overland so swiftly.

2. Gen. MacArthur expressed belief that Russia and Communist China will not now intervene in Korea.

3. United Nations troops in Korea will be reduced at once after victory is achieved and all United Nations troops, excepting the South Koreans, should be withdrawn by 1952.

4. The South Koreans should be assisted to have a small efficient air force and navy.

5. The confereees agreed to try to speed up deliveries of U. S. arms aid to forces fighting the Communists in Indochina.

Gov. Dewey Tries To Lessen Impact Of Hanley Letter

Points Out Raskob Underwrote FDR Debt

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, jaunty and outwardly as cool as a cucumber, went all out today to talk down the impact of the explosive Hanley letter.

He mentioned it repeatedly during state campaign speeches and wound up tonight at Newburgh, N. Y., by charging that the Democrats as long ago as 1928 had a rich man to underwrite their debts.

Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, after a conference with Dewey, wrote a Republican backer last Sept. 5:

"If I will consent to take the nomination to the United States Senate, I am definitely assured of being able to clean up my financial obligations within 90 days x x x."

Lynch Blames Dewey

Rep. Walter A. Lynch, Democratic candidate for governor, said in campaign speeches today that Dewey was responsible for what Hanley did but now is making Hanley "take the rap."

"He has been caught and he can't take it," Lynch added.

Lynch has demanded that Dewey and Hanley withdraw as candidates or face removal from office if elected.

Dewey told a radio audience in a state-wide broadcast that John J. Raskob underwrote $200,000 in debts for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1928 so the late President could run for governor of New York.

Raskob died a few days ago and Dewey said "God rest his soul — he was a wonderful citizen."

"I haven't the slightest criticism of that," Dewey continued. "It was in the best tradition. I just wish we had a Raskob in the Republican Party to help out Joe Hanley — unfortunately we don't.

"No Rich Men" On GOP Ticket

"We're all men who live on our salaries," Dewey said of his own ticket, while labelling his Democratic opponents rich men. "Every member of the Republican ticket has to live on his salary. We have no rich men on the Republican ticket."

Earlier, U. S. Rep. W. Kingsland Macy — to whom Hanley wrote his now-famous letter — was reported by a newspaper as having tried to use it to high-pressure a Senate candidacy for himself.

At the same time the Democrats called the letter evidence of a felony on Dewey's part and continued to clamor for his removal from office.

North Korean Leaders, Army Flee To North

Reds' Rear Guard Opposition Crumbles

TOKYO, Thursday, Oct. 19 (AP) — U. S. First Cavalry troops — first into Manila, first into Tokyo — fought their way today into the deserted Red Korean capital of Pyongyang, a field dispatch reported.

This would make a 13-mile final advance against fiercely resisting Reds seeking to protect the flight of Premier Kim Il Sung's government and army northward.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters at Seoul received word at noon (10 p. m. EST Wednesday) that elements of two regiments had battled into the ancient city.

The First Cavalry ran into the Red rear guard opposition yesterday while engaged in a race with the South Korean First Division for the honor of being the first into Pyongyang.

Striking out this morning from the town of Hukkyo, the troopers powered their way through Chunghwa, 10 miles out, and then drove on into the city, the field dispatch said.

Strong armored reinforcements were rushing up to support the advance.

Reds Flee To Huichon

Captured Pyongyang civilians told a South Korean army spokesman that Premier Kim Il Sung's Red government had fled to Huichon, 80 miles north of Pyongyang. They said the Red army had moved military headquarters 10 miles north of the capital to Sunchon.

"We will launch a new attack as soon as we can spread out and hit the enemy positions," said a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman.

He added, "We have overwhelming force at our command and, as soon as we can get set, nothing can stop us."

The stiff Red defense was strictly a rear guard action. Pyongyang itself was deserted. Main Red forces and civilians stirred up clouds of dust in their headlong flight north of the capital.

South Korea's Pusan radio had said, without confirmation, that the republic's forces entered Pyongyang Wednesday.

Previously the Eighth Army spokesman said the U. S. First Cavalry, driving up from the south, had been unable to advance since yesterday from a point 13 miles out.

Planes Aid Assault

Earlier there were reports that a patrol of the First Cavalry's famed Seventh Regiment had pushed within five miles of Pyongyang before running into entrenched Reds.

The forces needed to crunch through the Communist defense are were strung out along roads to Pyongyang. Up until yesterday, there was negligible Red defense.

The Reds' Pyongpang radio failed to make its customary broadcast last night but resumed today at 6 a. m. (4 p. m. EST Wednesday). This morning's broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, quoted the Red communique as saying there was continuous fighting near Hwangju. It is 23 miles south of Pyongyang.

The U. N. campaign to take the Red capital has been methodical. Its announced purpose has been to bring maximum pressure to bear at a minimum sacrifice of lives.

Fighters and bombers were off early today from bases in Korea and Southern Japan, winging to the Pyongyang area for devastating assaults. Excellent weather favored the attacks.

Three Jets Crash Near Washington In Freak Mishap

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — Three F-86 jet fighter planes, the fastest in the world, crashed minutes apart today in a freak mishap 35 miles northwest of Washington.

One of the pilots survived, although injured, while the fate of the other two was not immediately known.

Air Force officials said the planes were flying in formation but did not collide. They said if there had been a collision, the ships probably would have exploded.

One pilot radioed back to his base at Andrews Field, Md., that the other two single-seater planes were "in a spin" and falling toward the Potomac River.

Then his own plane went out of control.

The surviving pilot, Luther C. Barcus, Jr., Spring Lake,N. J. managed to make a belly-landing near Nokesville, Va. Two farmers picked him up as the walked along a highway away from the crash.

Barcus was taken to the Quantico, Va., Marine Base hospital where his condition was described as "not critical." Examination disclosed he had suffered a fractured leg and lacerations.

Hours later, the fate of the other two fliers was still unknown. A helicopter and at least five other planes were sent out to search for the missing aircraft. Ground parties joined in the hunt.

The plane search was called off at dark, but the Air Force said it will be resumed early tomorrow. Officials said investigators would check to determine whether there was any possibility of sabotage, although they indicated there was thus far no evidence of it.

Amusement Construction Ban Is Suggested By NPA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — The National Production Authority tonight proposed to the construction industry a possible shutdown on the building of amusement places such as race tracks, dance halls and amusement parks.

The proposal was greeted with near-unanimous disapprovel by nearly 20 spokesmen for various branches of the building industry, in a heated day-long session with NPA Administrator William H. Harrison.

Harrison notified the group at the outset that he believed "new limitations on construction would be necessary in the near future."

The builders protested that credit controls imposed on real estate dealings last week would so reduce building activity as to make sufficient materials available for defense.

Various Estimates

They gave various estimates as to the impact of credit curbs on home construction, but the highest guess was that 600,000 dwellings would be started in 1951 against an estimated 1,300,000 this year. In addition the industry men noted, controls over the financing of commercial construction — such as stores and office buildings — are still expected.

Harrison's aides told the industry men there is a "growing feeling" that it is unfair to curtail home construction while continuing to permit the building of amusement places.

They did not indicate specifically whether movie theatres would be included in any ban imposed, and indicated that no definition of "amusement facility" has yet been prepared.

Voluntary Conservation Urged

The industry group — which included bankers, contractors, and producers of lumber and other building materials — proposed that instead of limitations of building the government let industry itself try to conserve critical materials.

They argued also that non-defense construction by federal, state and local governments should be "sharply curtailed." The latter proposal was evidently aimed at such projects as the 810,000-unit public housing program now getting under way, as well as the construction of federal state and municipal office buildings.

Accordion Teacher Charged With Murder In Girl Pupil's Death

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18 (AP) — Violet John Berling, 32-year-old accordion teacher reared in childhood as a boy, today was charged with murder in the weird death of a ten-year-old girl pupil.

The charge came shortly after a coroner's jury heard an autopsy surgeon testify that little Kay Frances Erickson sat dead, strapped fast to a chair, for at least five hours before Miss Berling called for help. The wasted, badly burned and bruised body of the once chunky child was found in the music studio where she and Miss Berling lived together since last July.

Testimony of Dr. Victor Cefalu contradicted the story Miss Berling told police.

The mannish - appearing Miss Berling told officers the girl believed she had power to heal herself and that she often burned herself with a hot iron. Miss Berling said she was awakened about 6 a. m., Oct. 12 by the child's moans and found her bound to a chair by leather straps.

Dr. Cefalu, however, estimated the time of death at 1 a. m. and said "many head wounds were inflicted within 24 hours before death."

Youth, 14, Is Victim Of Russian Roulette

CANTON, O., Oct. 18 (AP) — Donald Finley, 14, fatally shot himself last night in a game of Russian roulette.

Police said the youth found a revolver in a drawer at his home. He put a bullet in one of the weapon's six chambers, spun the cylinder and placed the gun against his head. It fired on the first squeeze and he fell to the floor in front of his sister, Wilma, and his cousin, Shirley Reed. He died today.

French Abandon Fifth Indochina Frontier Post

SAIGON, Vietnam, Indochina, Oct. 18 (AP)—Screened by typhoon weather, French troops menaced by Communist-led Vietminh nationalists have abandoned the frontier post of Dong Dang, on a traditional invasion route from Communist China.

The withdrawal, the fifth by frontier garrisons within a month, was announced by a French military spokesman today. He said it was carried out yesterday in good order and without unusual pressure from the Vietminh guerrillas, who are directed by Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

Against a background of military reverses, Premier Tran Van Huu, of the French-supported Vietnamese government, proposed in an interview that the United States help him build up a national army of 40,000 troops immediately, plus a navy and air force.

Vietnamese regulars, who number less than 10,000, are among the forces now under French command. About 40,000 Indochinese auxiliaries also are commanded by the French. Some 50,000 Frenchmen and 50,000 Foreign Legionnaires and North Africans make up the rest of the army.

(The U. S. State Department said the major part of all American funds earmarked for arms shipments to the Far East would go to Indochina to pay for arms, munitions and newly requested light bombers. An official estimated Indochina's share at about $500,000,000. High U. S. officials said France, a key partner in the North Atlantic pact, is likely to get up to $6,000,000,000 in American military aid during the next three years.)

Indian Proposal Would Bar Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 18 (AP) — Russia, Nationalist China and Egypt lined up today behind an unexpected Indian move which in effect would throw Trygve Lie out of office next Feb. 2 and select a new secretary-general for the U. N. Russia suggested the new man should come from Latin America or Asia.

The Security Council met in secret session for two hours today without reaching a decision and without bringing new names openly into the issue. The council will meet again Friday after members have heard from their home governments on the Indian proposal.

The council meeting was called at the request of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, but Rau took the leading hand in the session. He proposed that each of the 11 members nominate two men for the post of secretary-general. These names would be put in a secret ballot box and turned over to the five permanent members of the council—Russia, United States, France, Britain and China—commonly called the Big Five powers.

Each of the Big Five would go over the list and knock out those to which it could not agree. The council then would meet and consider the names remaining on the list.

The new addition to the Roberts family was a girl. She has nine sisters and eight brothers. One of the children died in infancy.

The father, a machinist here, said the new arrival further aggravates his housing problem. The family has a five-room home at nearby Keedysville.

Chicago Officer Asked To Explain

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP) — Mayor Martin H. Kennelly decided today to look into a Senate crime committee disclosure that a $5,200 a year police captain accepted a $32,500 cash gift from a wealthy gambler in 1936.

The Democratic Mayor asked for a formal statement by Police Capt. Thomas Harrison, who several years ago was suspended on a charge of failure to suppress gambling in his district — a near north side area including the North Clark street honkytonk section. Harrison was reinstated later.

The committee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) questioned new witnesses at closed hearings today.

FCC Will Fight TV Color Suits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) —The communications commission today struck back at the critics of its color television decision of last week.

Breaking silence on the protests, including court actions, which followed its selection of Columbia Broadcasting System color as the nation's official color system, FCC:

1. Announced it "will vigorously oppose the issuance of any injunctive relief" to either Pilot Radio Corp., Radio Corp. of America or National Broadcasting Company, who have asked the federal courts in New York and Chicago to block the Columbia colorcasting authority:

2. Ordered NBC, the affiliate of RCA, to stop including RCA color system demonstration broadcasts in the "normal broadcast hours" of its Washington and New York stations, WNBW and WNBT.

3. Issued a statement designed to refute a charge by RCA in the Chicago suit that FCC was influenced in its decision for CBS by a commission engineer who invented a device useful to the Columbia system. RCA color was among the rival plans ruled out by the decision.

The court actions allege that "irreparable injury" to the public, manufacturers and broadcasters would result from the selection of CBS color because present and future sets would require an adapter in order to get Columbia color in black and white.

New York Hangs Out Air Raid Shelter Signs

From Lower Broadway to Rockefeller Center black and white signs bearing the letter "S" and an arrow pointing to the building entrance were placed in and near especially selected buildings in congested areas. Civil Defense Director Arthur W. Wallander said that 90 buildings had been selected to provide reasonable shelter in case of an air raid.

Fla. Hurricane Leaves 2 Dead

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP) — A tropical hurricane degenerated into widespread gale winds in Central Florida today after it had ripped up South Florida's Atlantic coast, killing two persons and causing several millions of dollars damage.

The Weather Bureau ordered all hurricane warning flags lowered late today but kept storm warnings flying from Stuart, Fla., north to Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Although it had lost its devestating punch, it still contained a few vicious jabs. Daytona Beach on the coast reported gusts up to 80 miles per hour. Deland, west of Daytona Beach, also was getting hurricane force gusts.

The American Red Cross reported 128 homes destroyed and 13,464 damaged to some extent by the tropical storm's 125-mile winds in Dade and Broward counties on the peninsula's lower east coast.

9 Koreans Send $50, Letter Of Sympathy To GI's Widow

COLLINGDALE, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Fifty dollars and a letter of sympathy contributed by nine Koreans was presented today to Mrs. John J. McCormick, widow of the American soldier who wrote the now famous "Dear Joanie and Rosemarie" letter to his two small daughters.

The presentation was made by Publicist John Lacerda representing Newsweek, a national magazine. The Koreans appeared in the magazine's Tokyo office Sept. 30 and said that they wanted to "let Mrs. McCormick know that there are good and decent people in Korea as well as bad ones."

McCormick, a private first class, wrote to his daughters, Rosemarie, six and Joanie, three, shortly before he was killed on August 10. He explained to his children that he was fighting in far off Korea so that the little girls might live in peace. The letter reached the children Sept. 14.

Upon receiving the Korean letter and $50, Mrs. McCormick said she "held no resentment against the Korean people for the awful death of my children's father. Free people fight because they believe something is right. The only resentment I hold is toward the Communist leader, Stalin, who has gone against the will of God."

Lewis Denies Sen. Tydings Had To Go Over His Head

EASTON, Md., Oct. 18 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md) said today he will take over Fulton Lewis, Jr.'s, network broadcast tomorrow night to defend himself against charges the radio commentator had made against him.

He said he had been forced to go to the Federal Communications Commission to get equal Mutual Broadcasting System network time to answer the charges.

In Washington, Lewis said that "if Sen. Tydings is correctly quoted that he was forced to go over my head to Mutual network officials and to the FCC to obtain my broadcast time Thursday night, he is guilty of a cheap, deliberate and contemptible lie."

A spokesman for the FCC said "a complaint" was received from Tydings yesterday and was forwarded to Mutual "as is done in such cases." The spokesman said the FCC took no further action itself.

A Mutual network statement on the affair released in New York said Lewis voluntarily had offered time on his broadcast to Tydings.

Lewis has been sharply critical of Sen. Tydings' handling of the investigation of charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that Communists had gained a toehold in the State Department.

Tydings, who is seeking reelection to a fifth term, was chairman of the Senate investigating committee that looked into the McCarthy charges.

Truman Orders New Port Security Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — President Truman today ordered rigid new security controls clamped on American ports to guard against sabotage and the sneak entry of a-bomb carrying ships.

In an executive order, he gave the Coast Guard power to control virtually every phase of port activity and domestic and foreign shipping within U. S. waters.

Congress recently granted Mr Truman authority to take such action whenever he considered the national security endangered.

Under the law, the President — through the Coast Guard—can, if necessary, even seize the vessels of foreign nations within U. S. territorial waters and take whatever steps are necessary to prevent the sabotage of American ports.

Amusement Construction Ban Is Suggested By NPA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — The National Production Authority tonight proposed to the construction industry a possible shutdown on the building of amusement places such as race tracks, dance halls and amusement parks.

The proposal was greeted with near-unanimous disapprovel by nearly 20 spokesmen for various branches of the building industry, in a heated day-long session with NPA Administrator William H. Harrison.

Harrison notified the group at the outset that he believed "new limitations on construction would be necessary in the near future."

The builders protested that credit controls imposed on real estate dealings last week would so reduce building activity as to make sufficient materials available for defense.

Various Estimates

They gave various estimates as to the impact of credit curbs on home construction, but the highest guess was that 600,000 dwellings would be started in 1951 against an estimated 1,300,000 this year. In addition the industry men noted, controls over the financing of commercial construction — such as stores and office buildings — are still expected.

Harrison's aides told the industry men there is a "growing feeling" that it is unfair to curtail home construction while continuing to permit the building of amusement places.

They did not indicate specifically whether movie theatres would be included in any ban imposed, and indicated that no definition of "amusement facility" has yet been prepared.

Voluntary Conservation Urged

The industry group — which included bankers, contractors, and producers of lumber and other building materials — proposed that instead of limitations of building the government let industry itself try to conserve critical materials.

They argued also that non-defense construction by federal, state and local governments should be "sharply curtailed." The latter proposal was evidently aimed at such projects as the 810,000-unit public housing program now getting under way, as well as the construction of federal state and municipal office buildings.

Accordion Teacher Charged With Murder In Girl Pupil's Death

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18 (AP) — Violet John Berling, 32-year-old accordion teacher reared in childhood as a boy, today was charged with murder in the weird death of a ten-year-old girl pupil.

The charge came shortly after a coroner's jury heard an autopsy surgeon testify that little Kay Frances Erickson sat dead, strapped fast to a chair, for at least five hours before Miss Berling called for help. The wasted, badly burned and bruised body of the once chunky child was found in the music studio where she and Miss Berling lived together since last July.

The mannish - appearing Miss Berling told officers the girl believed she had power to heal herself and that she often burned herself with a hot iron. Miss Berling said she was awakened about 6 a. m., Oct. 12 by the child's moans and found her bound to a chair by leather straps.

Dr. Cefalu, however, estimated the time of death at 1 a. m. and said "many head wounds were inflicted within 24 hours before death."

Youth, 14, Is Victim Of Russian Roulette

CANTON, O., Oct. 18 (AP) — Donald Finley, 14, fatally shot himself last night in a game of Russian roulette.

Police said the youth found a revolver in a drawer at his home. He put a bullet in one of the weapon's six chambers, spun the cylinder and placed the gun against his head. It fired on the first squeeze and he fell to the floor in front of his sister, Wilma, and his cousin, Shirley Reed. He died today.

Mencken Fails To Gain

Dr. Philip E. Wagley, his personal physician, said the famous newspaperman, author and critic's condition at 5 p.m. (EST) was "unimproved, still critical."

9 Koreans Send $50, Letter Of Sympathy To GI's Widow

COLLINGDALE, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Fifty dollars and a letter of sympathy contributed by nine Koreans was presented today to Mrs. John J. McCormick, widow of the American soldier who wrote the now famous "Dear Joanie and Rosemarie" letter to his two small daughters.

The presentation was made by Publicist John Lacerda representing Newsweek, a national magazine. The Koreans appeared in the magazine's Tokyo office Sept. 30 and said that they wanted to "let Mrs. McCormick know that there are good and decent people in Korea as well as bad ones."

McCormick, a private first class, wrote to his daughters, Rosemarie, six and Joanie, three, shortly before he was killed on August 10. He explained to his children that he was fighting in far off Korea so that the little girls might live in peace. The letter reached the children Sept. 14.

Upon receiving the Korean letter and $50, Mrs. McCormick said she "held no resentment against the Korean people for the awful death of my children's father. Free people fight because they believe something is right. The only resentment I hold is toward the Communist leader, Stalin, who has gone against the will of God."

Chicago Officer Asked To Explain

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP) — Mayor Martin H. Kennelly decided today to look into a Senate crime committee disclosure that a $5,200 a year police captain accepted a $32,500 cash gift from a wealthy gambler in 1936.

The Democratic Mayor asked for a formal statement by Police Capt. Thomas Harrison, who several years ago was suspended on a charge of failure to suppress gambling in his district — a near north side area including the North Clark street honkytonk section. Harrison was reinstated later.

The committee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) questioned new witnesses at closed hearings today.

French Abandon Fifth Indochina Frontier Post

SAIGON, Vietnam, Indochina, Oct. 18 (AP)—Screened by typhoon weather, French troops menaced by Communist-led Vietminh nationalists have abandoned the frontier post of Dong Dang, on a traditional invasion route from Communist China.

The withdrawal, the fifth by frontier garrisons within a month, was announced by a French military spokesman today. He said it was carried out yesterday in good order and without unusual pressure from the Vietminh guerrillas, who are directed by Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

Against a background of military reverses, Premier Tran Van Huu, of the French-supported Vietnamese government, proposed in an interview that the United States help him build up a national army of 40,000 troops immediately, plus a navy and air force.

Vietnamese regulars, who number less than 10,000, are among the forces now under French command. About 40,000 Indochinese auxiliaries also are commanded by the French. Some 50,000 Frenchmen and 50,000 Foreign Legionnaires and North Africans make up the rest of the army.

(The U. S. State Department said the major part of all American funds earmarked for arms shipments to the Far East would go to Indochina to pay for arms, munitions and newly requested light bombers. An official estimated Indochina's share at about $500,000,000. High U. S. officials said France, a key partner in the North Atlantic pact, is likely to get up to $6,000,000,000 in American military aid during the next three years.)

FCC Will Fight TV Color Suits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) —The communications commission today struck back at the critics of its color television decision of last week.

Breaking silence on the protests, including court actions, which followed its selection of Columbia Broadcasting System color as the nation's official color system, FCC:

1. Announced it "will vigorously oppose the issuance of any injunctive relief" to either Pilot Radio Corp., Radio Corp. of America or National Broadcasting Company, who have asked the federal courts in New York and Chicago to block the Columbia colorcasting authority:

2. Ordered NBC, the affiliate of RCA, to stop including RCA color system demonstration broadcasts in the "normal broadcast hours" of its Washington and New York stations, WNBW and WNBT.

3. Issued a statement designed to refute a charge by RCA in the Chicago suit that FCC was influenced in its decision for CBS by a commission engineer who invented a device useful to the Columbia system. RCA color was among the rival plans ruled out by the decision.

The court actions allege that "irreparable injury" to the public, manufacturers and broadcasters would result from the selection of CBS color because present and future sets would require an adapter in order to get Columbia color in black and white.

Knowland Demands Facts From Conferees

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — Government officials spread a report today that President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur had reached general agreement on the hot issue of Formosa — and a Republican critic of administration policy immediately demanded that the report be checked up to MacArthur.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) declared that the public should receive the facts directly from the General and President Truman rather than through "second hand leaks."

The developments followed President Truman's return home from his dramatic Wake island conference with MacArthur, during which they discussed Korea and other major matters. One of these was Formosa, on which the President and the General have not seen eye to eye.

Positions In Conflict

MacArthur has taken the position that the United States must make sure that this island off the China coast stays in friendly hands. He has pictured it as vital to the U. S. defenses. Mr. Truman has said that the long-range future of the island remains to be determined by international decision.

Soon after Mr. Truman flew home today, high officials met reporters at the Pentagon. Stipulating that their names must not be used, they said the Truman-MacArthur meeting resulted in general agreement on every issue discussed. The officials refused to say what the Formosa agreement was.

A few hours later Sen. Knowland issued a statement through the Republican National Committee. He noted that one news agency said the anonymous officials indicated that the President convinced Gen. MacArthur the "administration's policy of complete neutrality toward Formosa is the right one."

(The Associated Press reporters present did not understand the officials to give such an indication, and the AP did not carry it.)

Other Party Details Discussed

1. Plans for another amphibious landing in Korea have been abandoned because United Nations troops are moving overland so swiftly.

2. Gen. MacArthur expressed belief that Russia and Communist China will not now intervene in Korea.

3. United Nations troops in Korea will be reduced at once after victory is achieved and all United Nations troops, excepting the South Koreans, should be withdrawn by 1952.

4. The South Koreans should be assisted to have a small efficient air force and navy.

5. The confereees agreed to try to speed up deliveries of U. S. arms aid to forces fighting the Communists in Indochina.

Gov. Dewey Tries To Lessen Impact Of Hanley Letter

Points Out Raskob Underwrote FDR Debt

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, jaunty and outwardly as cool as a cucumber, went all out today to talk down the impact of the explosive Hanley letter.

He mentioned it repeatedly during state campaign speeches and wound up tonight at Newburgh, N. Y., by charging that the Democrats as long ago as 1928 had a rich man to underwrite their debts.

Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, after a conference with Dewey, wrote a Republican backer last Sept. 5:

"If I will consent to take the nomination to the United States Senate, I am definitely assured of being able to clean up my financial obligations within 90 days x x x."

Lynch Blames Dewey

Rep. Walter A. Lynch, Democratic candidate for governor, said in campaign speeches today that Dewey was responsible for what Hanley did but now is making Hanley "take the rap."

"He has been caught and he can't take it," Lynch added.

Lynch has demanded that Dewey and Hanley withdraw as candidates or face removal from office if elected.

Dewey told a radio audience in a state-wide broadcast that John J. Raskob underwrote $200,000 in debts for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1928 so the late President could run for governor of New York.

Raskob died a few days ago and Dewey said "God rest his soul — he was a wonderful citizen."

"I haven't the slightest criticism of that," Dewey continued. "It was in the best tradition. I just wish we had a Raskob in the Republican Party to help out Joe Hanley — unfortunately we don't.

"No Rich Men" On GOP Ticket

"We're all men who live on our salaries," Dewey said of his own ticket, while labelling his Democratic opponents rich men. "Every member of the Republican ticket has to live on his salary. We have no rich men on the Republican ticket."

Earlier, U. S. Rep. W. Kingsland Macy — to whom Hanley wrote his now-famous letter — was reported by a newspaper as having tried to use it to high-pressure a Senate candidacy for himself.

At the same time the Democrats called the letter evidence of a felony on Dewey's part and continued to clamor for his removal from office.

New York Hangs Out Air Raid Shelter Signs

From Lower Broadway to Rockefeller Center black and white signs bearing the letter "S" and an arrow pointing to the building entrance were placed in and near especially selected buildings in congested areas. Civil Defense Director Arthur W. Wallander said that 90 buildings had been selected to provide reasonable shelter in case of an air raid.

Fla. Hurricane Leaves 2 Dead

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP) — A tropical hurricane degenerated into widespread gale winds in Central Florida today after it had ripped up South Florida's Atlantic coast, killing two persons and causing several millions of dollars damage.

The Weather Bureau ordered all hurricane warning flags lowered late today but kept storm warnings flying from Stuart, Fla., north to Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Although it had lost its devestating punch, it still contained a few vicious jabs. Daytona Beach on the coast reported gusts up to 80 miles per hour. Deland, west of Daytona Beach, also was getting hurricane force gusts.

The American Red Cross reported 128 homes destroyed and 13,464 damaged to some extent by the tropical storm's 125-mile winds in Dade and Broward counties on the peninsula's lower east coast.

Lewis Denies Sen. Tydings Had To Go Over His Head

EASTON, Md., Oct. 18 (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md) said today he will take over Fulton Lewis, Jr.'s, network broadcast tomorrow night to defend himself against charges the radio commentator had made against him.

He said he had been forced to go to the Federal Communications Commission to get equal Mutual Broadcasting System network time to answer the charges.

In Washington, Lewis said that "if Sen. Tydings is correctly quoted that he was forced to go over my head to Mutual network officials and to the FCC to obtain my broadcast time Thursday night, he is guilty of a cheap, deliberate and contemptible lie."

A spokesman for the FCC said "a complaint" was received from Tydings yesterday and was forwarded to Mutual "as is done in such cases." The spokesman said the FCC took no further action itself.

A Mutual network statement on the affair released in New York said Lewis voluntarily had offered time on his broadcast to Tydings.

Lewis has been sharply critical of Sen. Tydings' handling of the investigation of charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that Communists had gained a toehold in the State Department.

Tydings, who is seeking reelection to a fifth term, was chairman of the Senate investigating committee that looked into the McCarthy charges.

North Korean Leaders, Army Flee To North

Reds' Rear Guard Opposition Crumbles

TOKYO, Thursday, Oct. 19 (AP) — U. S. First Cavalry troops — first into Manila, first into Tokyo — fought their way today into the deserted Red Korean capital of Pyongyang, a field dispatch reported.

This would make a 13-mile final advance against fiercely resisting Reds seeking to protect the flight of Premier Kim Il Sung's government and army northward.

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters at Seoul received word at noon (10 p. m. EST Wednesday) that elements of two regiments had battled into the ancient city.

The First Cavalry ran into the Red rear guard opposition yesterday while engaged in a race with the South Korean First Division for the honor of being the first into Pyongyang.

Striking out this morning from the town of Hukkyo, the troopers powered their way through Chunghwa, 10 miles out, and then drove on into the city, the field dispatch said.

Strong armored reinforcements were rushing up to support the advance.

Reds Flee To Huichon

Captured Pyongyang civilians told a South Korean army spokesman that Premier Kim Il Sung's Red government had fled to Huichon, 80 miles north of Pyongyang. They said the Red army had moved military headquarters 10 miles north of the capital to Sunchon.

"We will launch a new attack as soon as we can spread out and hit the enemy positions," said a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman.

He added, "We have overwhelming force at our command and, as soon as we can get set, nothing can stop us."

The stiff Red defense was strictly a rear guard action. Pyongyang itself was deserted. Main Red forces and civilians stirred up clouds of dust in their headlong flight north of the capital.

South Korea's Pusan radio had said, without confirmation, that the republic's forces entered Pyongyang Wednesday.

Previously the Eighth Army spokesman said the U. S. First Cavalry, driving up from the south, had been unable to advance since yesterday from a point 13 miles out.

Planes Aid Assault

Earlier there were reports that a patrol of the First Cavalry's famed Seventh Regiment had pushed within five miles of Pyongyang before running into entrenched Reds.

The forces needed to crunch through the Communist defense arc were strung out along roads to Pyongyang. Up until yesterday, there was negligible Red defense.

The Reds' Pyongpang radio failed to make its customary broadcast last night but resumed today at 6 a. m. (4 p. m. EST Wednesday). This morning's broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, quoted the Red communique as saying there was continuous fighting near Hwangju. It is 23 miles south of Pyongyang.

The U. N. campaign to take the Red capital has been methodical. Its announced purpose has been to bring maximum pressure to bear at a minimum sacrifice of lives.

Fighters and bombers were off early today from bases in Korea and Southern Japan, winging to the Pyongyang area for devastating assaults. Excellent weather favored the attacks.

Truman Orders New Port Security Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) — President Truman today ordered rigid new security controls clamped on American ports to guard against sabotage and the sneak entry of a-bomb carrying ships.

In an executive order, he gave the Coast Guard power to control virtually every phase of port activity and domestic and foreign shipping within U. S. waters.

Congress recently granted Mr Truman authority to take such action whenever he considered the national security endangered.

Under the law, the President — through the Coast Guard—can, if necessary, even seize the vessels of foreign nations within U. S. territorial waters and take whatever steps are necessary to prevent the sabotage of American ports.

Veteran Admits Spying Charge

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—A 28-year-old former Army sergeant, who worked on the atomic bomb, pleaded guilty today to conspiring to slip secret government information to Russia during wartime.

David Greenglass, the chunky former soldier, stood with bowed head and clasped hands before Federal Judge William Bondy as the charge against him was read.

He glanced at his attorney, O. John Rogge. The lawyer nodded.

Then, in a firm voice, Greenglass said, "Guilty."

Greenglass, who worked on the atom bomb at Los Alamos, N. Mex., originally was indicted in New Mexico. Then he was named in a superseding indictment with four others, including former Russian Vice-Consul in New York Anatoli A. Yakovlev. The latter is now believed to be in Russia.

In the light of Greenglass' plea it was expected he would turn government witness to escape the death penalty.

Greenglass was the third American to plead guilty recently to wartime spying for Russia. The first was Harry Gold, Philadelphia chemist. The second was Alfred Dean Slack, sentenced to 15 years imprisonment after pleading guilty in Greenville, Tenn.

Two Kittens Born In Tree Stay There

ALBION, Ia., Oct. 18 (AP) — Two kittens born six weeks ago on the Robert Dunn farm near here are up a tree — literally that is. They were born there.

The mother cat climbed into the tree to have the kittens apparently because her previous litters had been killed on the ground by dogs and livestock.

Although they are six weeks old only one of the kittens has ever been on the ground. The Dunns brought it down but it climbed back up the tree.

Women Complain As 'Voice' Invades Sanctity Of Home

WAYNE TOWNSHIP, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—The giant Voice of America, which sweeps majestically over oceans and continents, crashed head-on today against two steadfast women right in its own backyard.

A matter of sanctity of the home, the women said—and they wanted the Voice to keep out.

Their telephones, they said, play the "Star Spangled Banner."

Vous ecoutez la Voix de l'Amerique!"

So Mrs. John Perretti and Mrs. Edgar Smith, who live a mile from the two 50,000-watt transmitters called the Voice of America offices in New York and asked them to do something about it.

What they were told, the women said, was that their own television sets need fixing.

The women went indignantly to their congressman, Rep. Gordon Canfield. They said the attitude of the Voice of America official in New York was "sarcastic and abrupt."

Canfield said he was equally indignant. He said he was asking the State Department "to investigate my constituents' complaints at once."

"American Assembly" Plan Bared By "Ike"

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Dwight D. Eisenhower of Columbia University today announced a long-term plan to use American brains to help solve America's problems.

He called it the most important step he has taken since he came to Columbia after serving as Allied military leader in World War II.

He said the plan will be known as "The American Assembly" and will be financed at the outset by contributions to a $500,000 fund now being raised.

Assembly meetings will be held on a 100-acre estate at Harriman, N. Y., recently given to the university. The first meeting is scheduled for next spring.

The object of the plan, Eisenhower said, will be to explore problems of national interest, develop the truth about them and "shed sufficient light on them to help the people arrive at sound conclusions."

He said the plan will be known as "The American Assembly" and will be financed at the outset by contributions to a $500,000 fund now being raised.

Assembly meetings will be held on a 100-acre estate at Harriman, N. Y., recently given to the university. The first meeting is scheduled for next spring.

The object of the plan, Eisenhower said, will be to explore problems of national interest, develop the truth about them and "shed sufficient light on them to help the people arrive at sound conclusions."

A NICKEL IS STILL THE PRICE TO PAY FOR COKE

Year in, year out, through wars and depressions, through good times and bad, the price of Coca-Cola has always been a nickel—the quality has always been the same. Today, in spite of continually rising production and distribution costs, you can still get Coke for 5¢ a bottle, 25¢ a carton, $1.00 a case. We think that's a mighty big value in refreshment.

Legion Plans Ober Support

A program of public education concerning the Ober Law will be planned tonight at 8 o'clock when representatives of organizations in the county meet in the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

In a letter to the heads of unions, clubs and service organizations, the Americanization Committee of Mountain District said that it wishes to obtain the assistance of these groups in helping the Legion to educate the voters in Western Maryland as to the meaning of the Subversive Act of 1949.

The Legion will ask these groups to point out to the voters the correct manner in which they should mark their ballots so their vote for the Ober Law will count.

On November 7, the Maryland voters will cast their ballots on the issue of whether or not the law, which is directed against Communists, shall be retained on or removed from the statute books of the state.

The meeting will be conducted by the Americanism committee of Mountain District, which is comprised of Thomas B. Finan, Samuel A. Graham and William H. Buchholtz.

More Letters To GIs Urged

In announcing the observance of National Letter Writing Week, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon appealed to everyone to " write a few extra letters this week to relatives and friends in the Armed Forces."

Conlon pointed out that Cumberland has many guardsmen and reservists in the armed forces and hundreds of others serving at military installations in all parts of the world.

"These men", he said, "are hungry for mail from relatives and friends" The postmaster emphasized that there could be no better time to send extra welcome notes than during the national observation.

Other than appealing for more letters to soldiers, sailors and marines throughout the United States and world, local post office officials have not planned any other activities during the week.

Light On The Platz

Potsdamer Platz, where Berlin's America, British and Russian zones meet, is both madhouse and melting pot. It is in the broad expanse of the platz, or square, that the Reds stage most of their numerous rallies and indulge in various forms of psychological warfare to make life miserable for Germans of the East and West alike.

The other day the West Germans stole a base on the Russians by putting up a huge new "flashcast" on one of the West Berlin buildings facing the square. The five-foot letters are clearly visible to anyone in the square, and for a block or so inside the Russian zone. What hurts the Russians most is that uncensored news is available to anyone with eyes and curiosity. Tens of thousands of eager Berliners are taking advantage of the offer.

The worst the furious Russians have been able to put out in a way of a counter-punch is a loudspeaker barrage which repeats, over and over again, "Americans Go Home!" This gives the West Germans no credit at all for the idea.

But the Russians, like all moronic peoples, are great copycats and it probably will not be long until an opposition "flashcast" will put in an appearance on the other side of the square. If so, Potsdamer Platz will be better lit than at any time since 1939. The Germans could at least take some comfort in that even though they would have a hard time making head or tail out of the claims and counter-claims.

"Anna Christie" Dies

Pauline Lord was better known in the 1920s than in recent years, but she never lost her position as one of the leading actresses in the American theater. She died the other day at the age of 60.

Going on the stage at 13, she did not come into the spotlight until Eugene O'Neill created one of the greatest feminine roles in the English-speaking theater —Anna Christie.

The critics at the time noted that her acting as the girl of the water front cast over the theater a rare spell that would never be forgotten. They were right—her performance is still treasured.

After "Anna Christie" came a few other notable plays in which she starred—outstanding women characters such as Abby in "The Late Christopher Bean," Amy in "They Knew What They Wanted," and most particularly Zenobia in "Ethan Frome."

But in recent years the American theater offered little opportunity for this fine actress. Play after play in which she appeared turned out to be flops. Her last appearance on Broadway was six years ago, in a not very good play entitled "Sleep, My Pretty One."

This was the tragedy of an actress in search of a vehicle—and none forthcoming. But she will remain in memory as one of the great ladies of the theater. And, of all her work, nothing will ever surpass her portrayal of the tragic girl, Anna Christie, whose life was engulfed by "dat old debil sea."

"Adopting" Industry

Charitable Americans have adopted European families, providing them with food and clothing and thereby doubtless saving the lives of many. Now the Economic Co-operation Administration is thinking of asking American business concerns to "adopt" European industries for two years. This would involve training European factory managers and department heads in American plants. Our own experts would go to Europe and advise improvements suggested by inspection on the spot. New machines, if required, would presumably be supplied by the Europeans themselves.

Building up industry abroad is one of the best possible ways of raising the living standard and combatting communism. By lending their aid, our own industries would help our own economic foundation, since this should eventually reduce the drain of the direct assistance now furnished.

"Why should I build up a competitor?" business men may ask. This plaint is not likely to be heard as much as it might have been some years ago. American industry is so solidly established that the amount of damage which European competition could cause is less feared. Certainly it appears that not for some time will continental plants be able to do much more than keep going. American labor is so much more productive than its European counterpart that we need not fear serious loss of business. What loss there is might be more than made up by the gain to our own economic and political security.

Moreover Europe, made stronger and given a higher standard of living by new industrial success, might then buy more rather than less from America.

Less Noise

Not the least of the factors producing the tenseness and nervous strain which seems to be so characteristic of modern life is noise. We have become so accustomed to its continual impact that it is taken for granted. A period of silence, such as that observed on Armistice Day, is more impressive than fireworks or bells.

The Army Signal Corps is working on the suppression of noise in radio and television sets caused by the operation of electric razors, refrigerators, electric sweepers and so forth. Before these noises can be stopped, they must be accurately located, and new mechanism for this purpose is being developed. Its ultimate military use would be in battle areas, to improve radio communications and suppress noises which could give information to the enemy.

It may be hoped that these developments, like so many others brought about by war's emergencies, may be broadened and applied in ways which will lessen the noise connected with everyday living.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Hunters And Tularemia

TULAREMIA (rabbit fever) usually is associated with hunting and skinning wild animals, especially the cottontail and the wild hare. The condition is more prevalent in men, tho one of the most celebrated victims happened to be a woman. She was the wife of a Japanese scientist, Hachiro Ohara, who was making a detailed study of the disease.

Mme. Riki Ohara was 40 years of age and in excellent health. She may have been unaware of the serious consequences of the experiment for which she volunteered but was plucky enough to serve as a guinea pig. Her husband wanted to know how long it took between the time that the infection was acquired and the appearance of the first symptoms (the incubation period). So, on Jan. 20, 1925, he rubbed a bit of tissue from an infected rabbit on the back of his wife's left hand. Two days later the glands in her left armpit became tender to the touch; 48 hours thereafter her temperature rose and she developed chills, sweats, malaise, and headache. Ultimately she recovered, after several weeks of uncomfortable illness. Her courageous act not only gave the desired information on the incubation period but proved that tularemia could be acquired, without a skin abrasion, thru contact with the flesh of an infected animal.

The causative germ (bacterium tularense) is carried by ticks that have been living on infected rodents. These insects transmit the organisms thru their bite. Furthermore, once a strain becomes infected, tularemia can be passed on to offspring, which in turn can spread the malady even tho they never have been in contact with an infected rodent.

Human infection occurs in several forms, depending to a great extent upon the time of the year and the means by which the disease is contracted. In 60 per cent of all cases, an ulcer arises at the site where the organism gained entrance to the body. This generally is on the fingers or hands, especially in the winter time, when contact with infected animals is the most likely mode of transmission. In summer weather, the insect is a more common vector and as a result the initial lesion appears on an exposed part such as the hands or face.

From here the ailment follows a course similar to that of Mme. Ohara's. In the remaining 20 per cent of the cases the disease is atypical. The glands become swollen and tender but there is no ulceration of the skin; in this stage the disorder resembles typhoid, infectious mononucleosis, and leukemia. Occasionally the eyes bear the brunt of the attack, becoming red, swollen, and exceedingly painful.

In the past, little could be done. A serum was available but it was not entirely satisfactory. One in 20 victims died and the others were ill for several weeks or months. The new antibiotic, chloromycetin, is said to be effective and it may be that in the future this disease will be conquered as pneumonia, erysipelas, and others have been.

TOMORROW: How successful are cancer blood tests?

SHORTNESS

L. K. writes: My 16 year old son is short, even tho my husband is a 6 footer. Is there any chance that the boy will become taller?

REPLY

Yes, because young men continue to grow until the age of 20. The factors influencing height are heredity, the state of the endocrine glands, and nutrition. You do not mention your height; if you are a half-pint, your son may inherit shortness from your side of the family. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on height in children.

•—•—•

POOR CIRCULATION

L. P. writes: Do cold hands and feet always indicate poor circulation?

REPLY

Not necessarily. The sympathetic nervous system plays a more important role, as a rule, which explains why highstrung indiviuals often complain of cold extremities. When circulation to the legs is impaired, the cause may be hardening of the arteries. Buerger's disease, or blood vessel spasms. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on poor circulation.

•—•—•

PLEURISY

L. P. writes: What is the cause of pleurisy?

REPLY

The chief causes are infection, hemorrhages, blood clots, and tumors. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on pleurisy.

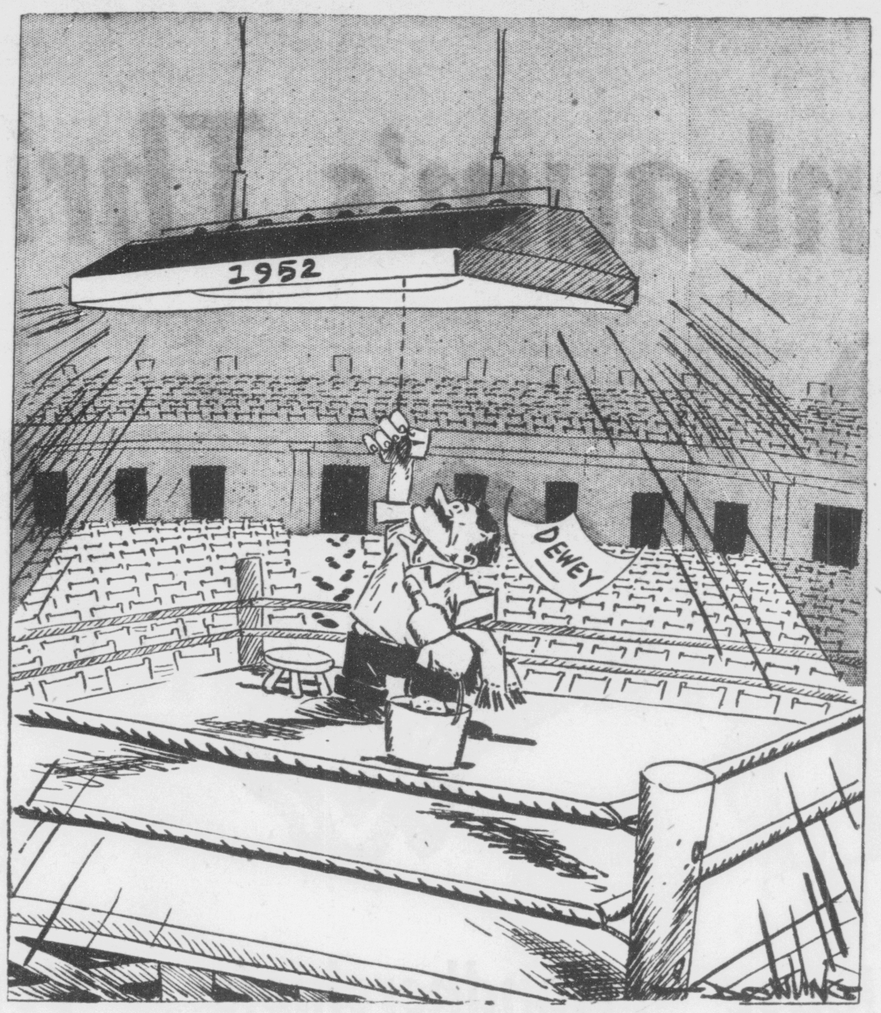
HIP ABNORMALITY

Mrs. J. writes: Could a breech presentation cause the baby to be born with a dislocated hip?

REPLY

Yes, but there are other causes, including developmental defects that existed prior to birth.

EARLY ARRIVAL IN THE EISENHOWER CORNER



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

California's 1950 Gubernatorial Campaign May Produce Future President; Hard For Party Bosses To Ignore Warren In '52 — Uses FDR Technique, In Reverse

Says DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO — Out of the turbulent, hard-slugging gubernatorial race in California may well come a future president of the United States.

The race between colorful, audacious Jimmy Roosevelt who, with his father's voice and charm, has been covering California like a patchwork quilt until there is almost no town which has not seen or heard him; and on the other side, Republican Gov. Earl Warren, one of the most level-headed executives in the U. S. A.

The race is important not merely because of the personalities involved but because of the growing importance of California in the nation. There was a day when Virginia, because of its size, was the mother state of presidents. Later, Ohio, with its heavy population, boasted that it was the well-spring of presidents, while New York has also supplied a heavy quota.

The weight of population is important because of the number of delegates a state can control in the nominating conventions. And this year, California comes forward with the second largest population in the U. S. A.

Also important is the fact that if a miracle should happen and Jimmy Roosevelt should be able to defeat a Republican of Governor Warren's prestige and standing, he would be definite presidential timber four years later.

On the other hand, if Warren defeats Jimmy Roosevelt, as now seems likely, his three terms as governor of California, plus certain other qualities, will make it hard for the party bosses to ignore him in 1952 — much as they would like to.

Warren A-1 Governor

Real fact is that when Jimmy Roosevelt picked Earl Warren as his opponent in his first big bid for public office, he picked about the toughest man to run against in the entire U. S. A. — for two reasons.

1. Warren has been an A-1 governor of a state that is hard to govern.

2. Warren has put into practice, in reverse, the sage advice of Jimmy's father, who when running for president in the pro-Republican days of 1932, told his brain trust: "The only way we can win is to wean away a chunk of Republican votes."

That was when the Republicans had a big majority of the registered voters. Now with a preponderance of Democratic voters, Warren reverses FDR's technique and weans away the Democrats.

How successful he has been is illustrated by his first race for governor in 1942 when 400,000 Democrats voted for Warren. In his second race, 1946, he was so strong with the Democrats that they nominated him on their ticket too.

Doubtless Warren would have received the Democratic nomination again this year also, had it not been for Jimmy Roosevelt. And this in itself is a tribute to the indefatigable vigor of the youthful Jimmy.

More Democrat Than Republican

A little over a year ago I discussed with Governor Warren his political future. He seemed discouraged and somewhat uncertain. Scores of Republican leaders in California were down on him, claimed he was more a Democrat than a Republican, and there was open talk that Lt. Gov. Goodwin Knight would run against him in the GOP primaries.

I have always remembered one remark Warren made at that time, "If a job is worth doing," he said, "it is worth fighting for, even if you lose."

At that time, Republican reactionaries were so opposed to Warren that I think he expected to lose. Today the tide is just the opposite. Warren is riding the crest of the wave and is a certain victor.

Warren has become that favorite chiefly by applying a rigid sense of fair play to government. Some time ago, Judge William Denman of San Francisco, chief justice of the U. S. Court of Appeals, telephoned Warren to ask the political affiliation of 10 state judges the Governor had appointed over a period of years.

The Governor appeared slightly irritated. "I don't know what political party they belong to," he replied.

Judge Denman, who believes, as Warren does, that a judge should not be picked because of politics, later looked up the political backgrounds of the 10 California judges. He found that Warren had appointed five Republicans and five Democrats.

Political Courage

In more than one respect Jimmy Roosevelt's political aspirations are suffering from the fact that Governor Warren has taken a leaf from Jimmy's father's book. For instance, Warren has appointed a negro, Walter Gordon, as head of the California Parole Board — an appointee who has won the respect and confidence of everyone.

Warren has also gone further than any other state in working out old-age pensions; and put forward a health program of his own which, while not going as far as that proposed in Washington, at least went far enough to stir California doctors into a lather against him.

Finally, Warren had the courage to take a firm stand against the witch-hunters on the board of regents of the University of California when they demanded a faculty loyalty oath that would delve back into the entire political life of every professor. Though his stand was unpopular, Warren opposed his Republican friends on the board of regents and sided with the faculty.

This inspired some off-the-record remarks by another prominent personage who may find himself competing with Warren for the GOP nomination in 1952 — General Eisenhower.

Ike was being wined and dined in San Francisco some months ago and delivered two off-the-record talks before the San Francisco Press Club and the Bohemian Club, during which he took an indirect crack at Governor Warren by saying that he didn't know of any loyalty oath that he wouldn't be willing to stand up and swear to.

Naturally, the remark got back to Warren.

"It is interesting," commented the Governor to a friend, "that the General made his remark off-the-record so it would not be quoted in the East. For he and President Conant of Harvard were the first to take a public stand against loyalty oaths.

"Furthermore," continued Warren, "it happens that the university Ike heads has more communists and reds than any other in the country."

Hope In The Air

WASHINGTON

A MAJOR nightmare haunted anyone who watched the Korean fighting with the far larger Western defense problem in mind. Here we were, painfully winning a war by mustering overwhelming superiority in firepower, in accord with our accustomed method of fighting. But what would happen in a war against an enemy possessing mass manpower, habituated to use manpower with perfect ruthlessness, and possessing also the most massive and overwhelming armor and artillery firepower?

Such an enemy would have both the advantage of the North Koreans and our own advantage.

To defend Western Europe against precisely such an enemy is the problem of the Western defense planners. In view of the necessary limitations on the size of any Western European defense force, it is no use trying to match every Soviet armored division and mortar division and mechanized division and artillery corps. Because of manpower limitations, the ordinary infantry would be a minus quantity in any Western European army designed in this way. Is there, then, any way out?

The way out, obviously, is in the air. All-out mobilization of the whole Soviet economy has thus far produced an air force of only about 19,000 planes of all types—larger than we have now, but peanuts by the standards of what we can do if we try. The effectiveness of air power in ground fighting was proven again in Korea. The air is where we can counter-balance the Russian manpower mass by capitalizing on our technical and productive superiority. The development of unchallengeable tactical air power is perhaps the most vital of all the great, related tasks involved in building a solid defense of the Western world.

Starting From Scratch

But it is also vital that this task should be undertaken with first principles clearly in mind. We are beginning from scratch. Our air leaders requested a post-war air force of 70 groups. They got 42 groups masquerading as 48. With the hearty concurrence of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the major air investment was therefore devoted to strategic air power. If that investment had not been made; if the deterrent of our strategic air force did not exist, we should undoubtedly be on the losing side of a third world war at this very moment. At the same time, we do not now possess more than a ghost of true specialized tactical air power.

Second, the job that must now be done is rather different from any before attempted. The Marines, whose superb air squadrons did incomparable work in Korea, have always specialized in giving the closest support to troops in the field. But this use of air as a substitute of artillery is better adapted to the Marine mission of seizing beachheads, than to the true air mission. The true air mission can be best defined as cutting the enemy ground force down to size. This means primarily that the enemy ground force must be relentlessly attacked long before it reaches the battlefield. Effective isolation of the battlefield must have first priority, after control of the air has been gained.

What was done in this line in the last war was primitive. Daily locating immense numbers of small, continually shifting ground targets —truck convoys, railroad equipment and the like—and keeping out all the usable lines of communication at the same time, is a task that requires equipment only now beginning to be available.

Specialized aircraft are required for target location. Complex and refined systems of air ground control are needed to direct the planes in the air to the targets on the ground. Other specialized aircraft carefully designed, with first priority given to the characteristics of taking out many different sorts of small ground targets and withstanding the inevitable ground fire, are also needed. Special training programs are finally essential, both for the men who must operate all these different sorts of equipment, and to coordinate the air operations in the closest possible manner with the effort on the ground.

A book would be needed to give even the theoretical blueprint of the tactical air force of the future, with all its elaborate techniques of night operations, of meshing the effort of the truly tactical airplanes with their protecting fighter interceptors, and so on. It is enough here to make only two further points. In Korea, under pressure of necessity, we simply converted high altitude fighters and heavy bombers to tactical uses. But it is impossible to use this system in building real tactical air power, which will be truly capable of cutting a larger enemy ground force down to size.

Truman's Address Will Be Valuable Outside Of U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 — While there is nothing startling in the speech delivered by President Truman after his conference with General MacArthur, the address undoubtedly will have much more value outside than inside the United States.

The President's comments will be broadcast throughout Asia. They constitute the first comprehensive statement of American policy toward Far Eastern communism made by any official. The arguments can be and will be used over and over again on the "Voice of America" in an endeavor to reach the peoples of China, Japan, Korea and Southeast Asia as well as India.

Whatever else Mr. Truman had in mind in visiting with General MacArthur, it was a good idea to follow it up with an address that could command world-wide attention on the very subjects which it is American policy to emphasize. It is an excellent example of timing and of publicity value that attaches to an official statement.

Mr. Truman was able also to kill several birds with one stone, so to speak. He was able to assure the Japanese people that a peace treaty is in the offing. That is very important now in preventing Communist propaganda from getting a foothold inside Japan.

Helped U.N. Prestige

The President was able to help the prestige of the United Nations by calling attention to its achievement in resisting aggression in Korea. By making his address in San Francisco where the U.N. was born, Mr. Truman had a chance to dramatize the work of the U.N. and call attention to the progress of that organization since its inception—again, a piece of timely publicity for the U.N., particularly abroad.

What Mr. Truman said about the plans which he and General MacArthur talked over to establish a "unified, independent and democratic" government in Korea is a bit ambiguous because an independent government already exists there which it was Russia's purpose to restrain from governing all Korea. By giving formal assurance that all troops would be withdrawn when peace objectives have been fully attained, the President strives to prevent the communists from making capital out of the prolonged occupation by foreign troops.

Mr. Truman's broad references to rehabilitation of Korea and the aid which the ECA and the U.N. plan to give will have an excellent effect not only inside that unfortunate country but outside, where the communists have been charging that the basic purpose of the U.N. forces is imperialistic.

What the President said in denouncing "communist imperialism" constitutes the first extensive treatment of that subject from a philosophical standpoint that he has broadcast thus far. He points out that the Soviets have embarked on a "new colonialism" by exploiting other peoples. Mr. Truman refers to the "false revolution of communism" and declares that America's national history began "with a revolutionary idea." He calls communism "the most ractionary movement in the world today" and asks the people of Asia to be assured that America knows about the problems of social injustice which have to be solved.

"We believe," he said, "in the family-size farm. That is the basis of our agriculture and has strongly influenced our form of government."

Talks Of Preparedness

Here is an attempt to come to grips with the so-called agrarian issue which has been utilized in Communist propaganda, especially in China. The President calls for "a full partnership with the peoples of Asia" and stresses the traditional role of American missionaries, doctors, teachers, and business men in their ties with Asia. Obviously he means China but doesn't mention that country by name.

To the people of the United States, the President preaches more and more preparedness on the military side. He calls for more production and more armament. He points to the Soviet threat as constant and says that the Russians must give proof of peaceful intentions if the other nations are to reduce armament. His final warning is most important not only to the people who will be called to military service but to business and labor executives who have been wondering what the future of the armament program would be after the Korean war. He said:

"We are going ahead in dead earnest to build up our defenses. There will be no let-down because of the successes achieved in Korea."

The address covered a multitude of objectives, not the least of which was the President's opportunity to give conspicuously an expression of confidence in General MacArthur himself.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Arsenal Of Defense

NO MATTER how excited we become over the prowess and heroism of our troops, the Korean war, as World War I and World War II, has established the fact that the realistic strength of this country lies in its productive capacity. That is our ace in the hole.

This productive capacity is not due to our abundance of raw materials; Russia is richer in that realm. It is due to a combination of management and labor, to the genius of free men, functioning in various capacities in the manufacture of our needs.

The Russians operate under a controlled system, both management and labor being servants of the state. Russian manufactures, even with the assistance of American, German and British managerial skills, were far behind before World War II when the United States poured $11,000,000,000 into that country and gave them our models, plans and managerial skill.

Our great achievement in World War II was in the factory, mill and mine. We so outproduced our enemies that they had no chance. Lloyd W. Hargest, former chief, statistics and reports, and recorder, Army-Navy Production Award Board of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District, has produced a book entitled "To the Unsung Heroes of the Production Front," which tells the full story of the Army-Navy "E" in the Pittsburgh area.

The Army-Navy "E" evolved from the Navy "E," which originated in 1906 and was an award of merit not only to the owners and management of a plant but to the workers. It was an expression of gratitude by the government for excellence of service in the national defense. Mr. Hargest gives the long and complex history of how the Army and Navy joined in providing a unified "E" and it is astonishing how complicated a simple matter can become once the bureaucrats get hold of it.

In the course of the war, most of the outstanding producers of American products were granted the "E" amid exciting ceremonies, some sooner, some later. The CIO and the AF of L got into the picture and apparently were able to bring influence to bear in Washington to favor companies that signed up with them and to withhold or delay the award of the "E" to companies that did not have contracts with them.

Mr. Hargest, in this book, devotes considerable space to the troubles of the Weirton Steel Company, which has not had a strike for 17 years, yet whose workers have not been affiliated with the CIO or the AF or L. Its "E" award was delayed despite its astonishing productivity and record of firsts, entirely because of CIO objections to awarding an independent union that would not strike in time of war. When the award was finally granted, the CIO United Steel Workers claimed the credit for getting it for a union which was not affiliated with it. The union letter on the subject is quoted by Hargest as saying:

"Yet, in spite of the many records made at Weirton, it is to be remembered that the War Production Board refused to act on the award until the company agreed to obey the order of the court to comply with the law protecting the right of workers to join the USA-CIO or any union of their choice. It is to be remembered, also, that it was through the gallant fight of the USA-CIO that the company was forced to comply."

There must be other cases of this nature throughout the United States, but this is the only one reported in this book—instances of the War Production Board and other agencies of government accepting guidance in public matters from the CIO or the AF of L, even in wartime, where all the force of government should be put behind production.

So, we now find that in the midst of war, strikes and threats of strikes continue in various industries. No credit is given those independent unions who refuse to strike.

The deeper we get into the present war, the more serious will become this problem of placing union affiliation before the needs of the country. There is no evidence that the CIO is willing to serve this country, without strikes, disturbances and stoppages as our boys are doing at the front. Nobody strikes in Korea or asks the CIO's permission to fight.

Light On The Platz

Potsdamer Platz, where Berlin's America, British and Russian zones meet, is both madhouse and melting pot. It is in the broad expanse of the platz, or square, that the Reds stage most of their numerous rallies and indulge in various forms of psychological warfare to make life miserable for Germans of the East and West alike.

The other day the West Germans stole a base on the Russians by putting up a huge new "flashcast" on one of the West Berlin buildings facing the square. The five-foot letters are clearly visible to anyone in the square, and for a block or so inside the Russian zone. What hurts the Russians most is that uncensored news is available to anyone with eyes and curiosity. Tens of thousands of eager Berliners are taking advantage of the offer.

The worst the furious Russians have been able to put out in a way of a counter-punch is a loudspeaker barrage which repeats, over and over again, "Americans Go Home!" This gives the West Germans no credit at all for the idea.

But the Russians, like all moronic peoples, are great copycats and it probably will not be long until an opposition "flashcast" will put in an appearance on the other side of the square. If so, Potsdamer Platz will be better lit than at any time since 1939. The Germans could at least take some comfort in that even though they would have a hard time making head or tail out of the claims and counter-claims.

"Anna Christie" Dies

Pauline Lord was better known in the 1920s than in recent years, but she never lost her position as one of the leading actresses in the American theater. She died the other day at the age of 60.

Going on the stage at 13, she did not come into the spotlight until Eugene O'Neill created one of the greatest feminine roles in the English-speaking theater —Anna Christie.

The critics at the time noted that her acting as the girl of the water front cast over the theater a rare spell that would never be forgotten. They were right—her performance is still treasured.

After "Anna Christie" came a few other notable plays in which she starred—outstanding women characters such as Abby in "The Late Christopher Bean," Amy in "They Knew What They Wanted," and most particularly Zenobia in "Ethan Frome."

But in recent years the American theater offered little opportunity for this fine actress. Play after play in which she appeared turned out to be flops. Her last appearance on Broadway was six years ago, in a not very good play entitled "Sleep, My Pretty One."

This was the tragedy of an actress in search of a vehicle—and none forthcoming. But she will remain in memory as one of the great ladies of the theater. And, of all her work, nothing will ever surpass her portrayal of the tragic girl, Anna Christie, whose life was engulfed by "dat old debil sea."

"Adopting" Industry

Charitable Americans have adopted European families, providing them with food and clothing and thereby doubtless saving the lives of many. Now the Economic Co-operation Administration is thinking of asking American business concerns to "adopt" European industries for two years. This would involve training European factory managers and department heads in American plants. Our own experts would go to Europe and advise improvements suggested by inspection on the spot. New machines, if required, would presumably be supplied by the Europeans themselves.

Building up industry abroad is one of the best possible ways of raising the living standard and combatting communism. By lending their aid, our own industries would help our own economic foundation, since this should eventually reduce the drain of the direct assistance now furnished.

"Why should I build up a competitor?" business men may ask. This plaint is not likely to be heard as much as it might have been some years ago. American industry is so solidly established that the amount of damage which European competition could cause is less feared. Certainly it appears that not for some time will continental plants be able to do much more than keep going. American labor is so much more productive than its European counterpart that we need not fear serious loss of business. What loss there is might be more than made up by the gain to our own economic and political security.

Moreover Europe, made stronger and given a higher standard of living by new industrial success, might then buy more rather than less from America.

Less Noise

Not the least of the factors producing the tenseness and nervous strain which seems to be so characteristic of modern life is noise. We have become so accustomed to its continual impact that it is taken for granted. A period of silence, such as that observed on Armistice Day, is more impressive than fireworks or bells.

The Army Signal Corps is working on the suppression of noise in radio and television sets caused by the operation of electric razors, refrigerators, electric sweepers and so forth. Before these noises can be stopped, they must be accurately located, and new mechanism for this purpose is being developed. Its ultimate military use would be in battle areas, to improve radio communications and suppress noises which could give information to the enemy.

It may be hoped that these developments, like so many others brought about by war's emergencies, may be broadened and applied in ways which will lessen the noise connected with everyday living.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Hunters And Tularemia

TULAREMIA (rabbit fever) usually is associated with hunting and skinning wild animals, especially the cottontail and the wild hare. The condition is more prevalent in men, tho one of the most celebrated victims happened to be a woman. She was the wife of a Japanese scientist, Hachiro Ohara, who was making a detailed study of the disease.

Mme. Riki Ohara was 40 years of age and in excellent health. She may have been unaware of the serious consequences of the experiment for which she volunteered but was plucky enough to serve as a guinea pig. Her husband wanted to know how long it took between the time that the infection was acquired and the appearance of the first symptoms (the incubation period). So, on Jan. 20, 1925, he rubbed a bit of tissue from an infected rabbit on the back of his wife's left hand. Two days later the glands in her left armpit became tender to the touch; 48 hours thereafter her temperature rose and she developed chills, sweats, malaise, and headache. Ultimately she recovered, after several weeks of uncomfortable illness. Her courageous act not only gave the desired information on the incubation period but proved that tularemia could be acquired, without a skin abrasion, thru contact with the flesh of an infected animal.

The causative germ (bacterium tularense) is carried by ticks that have been living on infected rodents. These insects transmit the organisms thru their bite. Furthermore, once a strain becomes infected, tularemia can be passed on to offspring, which in turn can spread the malady even tho they never have been in contact with an infected rodent.

Human infection occurs in several forms, depending to a great extent upon the time of the year and the means by which the disease is contracted. In 60 per cent of all cases, an ulcer arises at the site where the organism gained entrance to the body. This generally is on the fingers or hands, especially in the winter time, when contact with infected animals is the most likely mode of transmission. In summer weather, the insect is a more common vector and as a result the initial lesion appears on an exposed part such as the hands or face.

From here the ailment follows a course similar to that of Mme. Ohara's. In the remaining 20 per cent of the cases the disease is atypical. The glands become swollen and tender but there is no ulceration of the skin; in this stage the disorder resembles typhoid, infectious mononucleosis, and leukemia. Occasionally the eyes bear the brunt of the attack, becoming red, swollen, and exceedingly painful.

In the past, little could be done. A serum was available but it was not entirely satisfactory. One in 20 victims died and the others were ill for several weeks or months. The new antibiotic, chloromycetin, is said to be effective and it may be that in the future this disease will be conquered as pneumonia, erysipelas, and others have been.

SHORTNESS

L. K. writes: My 16 year old son is short, even tho my husband is a 6 footer. Is there any chance that the boy will become taller?

REPLY

Yes, because young men continue to grow until the age of 20. The factors influencing height are heredity, the state of the endocrine glands, and nutrition. You do not mention your height; if you are a half-pint, your son may inherit shortness from your side of the family. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on height in children.

POOR CIRCULATION

L. P. writes: Do cold hands and feet always indicate poor circulation?

REPLY

Not necessarily. The sympathetic nervous system plays a more important role, as a rule, which explains why highstrung indiviuals often complain of cold extremities. When circulation to the legs is impaired, the cause may be hardening of the arteries. Buerger's disease, or blood vessel spasms. California's 1950 Gubernatorial Campaign May Produce Future President; Hard For Party Bosses To Ignore Warren In '52 — Uses FDR Technique, In Reverse

Says DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO — Out of the turbulent, hard-slugging gubernatorial race in California may well come a future president of the United States.

The race between colorful, audacious Jimmy Roosevelt who, with his father's voice and charm, has been covering California like a patchwork quilt until there is almost no town which has not seen or heard him; and on the other side, Republican Gov. Earl Warren, one of the most level-headed executives in the U. S. A.

The race is important not merely because of the personalities involved but because of the growing importance of California in the nation. There was a day when Virginia, because of its size, was the mother state of presidents. Later, Ohio, with its heavy population, boasted that it was the well-spring of presidents, while New York has also supplied a heavy quota.

The weight of population is important because of the number of delegates a state can control in the nominating conventions. And this year, California comes forward with the second largest population in the U. S. A.

Also important is the fact that if a miracle should happen and Jimmy Roosevelt should be able to defeat a Republican of Governor Warren's prestige and standing, he would be definite presidential timber four years later.

On the other hand, if Warren defeats Jimmy Roosevelt, as now seems likely, his three terms as governor of California, plus certain other qualities, will make it hard for the party bosses to ignore him in 1952 — much as they would like to.

Warren A-1 Governor

Real fact is that when Jimmy Roosevelt picked Earl Warren as his opponent in his first big bid for public office, he picked about the toughest man to run against in the entire U. S. A. — for two reasons.

1. Warren has been an A-1 governor of a state that is hard to govern.

2. Warren has put into practice, in reverse, the sage advice of Jimmy's father, who when running for president in the pro-Republican days of 1932, told his brain trust: "The only way we can win is to wean away a chunk of Republican votes."

That was when the Republicans had a big majority of the registered voters. Now with a preponderance of Democratic voters, Warren reverses FDR's technique and weans away the Democrats.

How successful he has been is illustrated by his first race for governor in 1942 when 400,000 Democrats voted for Warren. In his second race, 1946, he was so strong with the Democrats that they nominated him on their ticket too.

Doubtless Warren would have received the Democratic nomination again this year also, had it not been for Jimmy Roosevelt. And this in itself is a tribute to the indefatigable vigor of the youthful Jimmy.

More Democrat Than Republican

A little over a year ago I discussed with Governor Warren his political future. He seemed discouraged and somewhat uncertain. Scores of Republican leaders in California were down on him, claimed he was more a Democrat than a Republican, and there was open talk that Lt. Gov. Goodwin Knight would run against him in the GOP primaries.

I have always remembered one remark Warren made at that time, "If a job is worth doing," he said, "it is worth fighting for, even if you lose."

At that time, Republican reactionaries were so opposed to Warren that I think he expected to lose. Today the tide is just the opposite. Warren is riding the crest of the wave and is a certain victor.

Warren has become that favorite chiefly by applying a rigid sense of fair play to government. Some time ago, Judge William Denman of San Francisco, chief justice of the U. S. Court of Appeals, telephoned Warren to ask the political affiliation of 10 state judges the Governor had appointed over a period of years.

The Governor appeared slightly irritated. "I don't know what political party they belong to," he replied.

Judge Denman, who believes, as Warren does, that a judge should not be picked because of politics, later looked up the political backgrounds of the 10 California judges. He found that Warren had appointed five Republicans and five Democrats.

Political Courage

In more than one respect Jimmy Roosevelt's political aspirations are suffering from the fact that Governor Warren has taken a leaf from Jimmy's father's book. For instance, Warren has appointed a negro, Walter Gordon, as head of the California Parole Board — an appointee who has won the respect and confidence of everyone.

Warren has also gone further than any other state in working out old-age pensions; and put forward a health program of his own which, while not going as far as that proposed in Washington, at least went far enough to stir California doctors into a lather against him.

Finally, Warren had the courage to take a firm stand against the witch-hunters on the board of regents of the University of California when they demanded a faculty loyalty oath that would delve back into the entire political life of every professor. Though his stand was unpopular, Warren opposed his Republican friends on the board of regents and sided with the faculty.

This inspired some off-the-record remarks by another prominent personage who may find himself competing with Warren for the GOP nomination in 1952 — General Eisenhower.

Ike was being wined and dined in San Francisco some months ago and delivered two off-the-record talks before the San Francisco Press Club and the Bohemian Club, during which he took an indirect crack at Governor Warren by saying that he didn't know of any loyalty oath that he wouldn't be willing to stand up and swear to.

Naturally, the remark got back to Warren.

"It is interesting," commented the Governor to a friend, "that the General made his remark off-the-record so it would not be quoted in the East. For he and President Conant of Harvard were the first to take a public stand against loyalty oaths.

"Furthermore," continued Warren, "it happens that the university Ike heads has more communists and reds than any other in the country."

Hope In The Air

WASHINGTON

A MAJOR nightmare haunted anyone who watched the Korean fighting with the far larger Western defense problem in mind. Here we were, painfully winning a war by mustering overwhelming superiority in firepower, in accord with our accustomed method of fighting. But what would happen in a war against an enemy possessing mass manpower, habituated to use manpower with perfect ruthlessness, and possessing also the most massive and overwhelming armor and artillery firepower?

Such an enemy would have both the advantage of the North Koreans and our own advantage.

To defend Western Europe against precisely such an enemy is the problem of the Western defense planners. In view of the necessary limitations on the size of any Western European defense force, it is no use trying to match every Soviet armored division and mortar division and mechanized division and artillery corps. Because of manpower limitations, the ordinary infantry would be a minus quantity in any Western European army designed in this way. Is there, then, any way out?

The way out, obviously, is in the air. All-out mobilization of the whole Soviet economy has thus far produced an air force of only about 19,000 planes of all types—larger than we have now, but peanuts by the standards of what we can do if we try. The effectiveness of air power in ground fighting was proven again in Korea. The air is where we can counter-balance the Russian manpower mass by capitalizing on our technical and productive superiority. The development of unchallengeable tactical air power is perhaps the most vital of all the great, related tasks involved in building a solid defense of the Western world.

Starting From Scratch

But it is also vital that this task should be undertaken with first principles clearly in mind. We are beginning from scratch. Our air leaders requested a post-war air force of 70 groups. They got 42 groups masquerading as 48. With the hearty concurrence of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the major air investment was therefore devoted to strategic air power. If that investment had not been made; if the deterrent of our strategic air force did not exist, we should undoubtedly be on the losing side of a third world war at this very moment. At the same time, we do not now possess more than a ghost of true specialized tactical air power.

Second, the job that must now be done is rather different from any before attempted. The Marines, whose superb air squadrons did incomparable work in Korea, have always specialized in giving the closest support to troops in the field. But this use of air as a substitute of artillery is better adapted to the Marine mission of seizing beachheads, than to the true air mission. The true air mission can be best defined as cutting the enemy ground force down to size. This means primarily that the enemy ground force must be relentlessly attacked long before it reaches the battlefield. Effective isolation of the battlefield must have first priority, after control of the air has been gained.

What was done in this line in the last war was primitive. Daily locating immense numbers of small, continually shifting ground targets —truck convoys, railroad equipment and the like—and keeping out all the usable lines of communication at the same time, is a task that requires equipment only now beginning to be available.

Specialized aircraft are required for target location. Complex and refined systems of air ground control are needed to direct the planes in the air to the targets on the ground. Other specialized aircraft carefully designed, with first priority given to the characteristics of taking out many different sorts of small ground targets and withstanding the inevitable ground fire, are also needed. Special training programs are finally essential, both for the men who must operate all these different sorts of equipment, and to coordinate the air operations in the closest possible manner with the effort on the ground.

A book would be needed to give even the theoretical blueprint of the tactical air force of the future, with all its elaborate techniques of night operations, of meshing the effort of the truly tactical airplanes with their protecting fighter interceptors, and so on. It is enough here to make only two further points. In Korea, under pressure of necessity, we simply converted high altitude fighters and heavy bombers to tactical uses. But it is impossible to use this system in building real tactical air power, which will be truly capable of cutting a larger enemy ground force down to size.

Truman's Address Will Be Valuable Outside Of U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 — While there is nothing startling in the speech delivered by President Truman after his conference with General MacArthur, the address undoubtedly will have much more value outside than inside the United States.

The President's comments will be broadcast throughout Asia. They constitute the first comprehensive statement of American policy toward Far Eastern communism made by any official. The arguments can be and will be used over and over again on the "Voice of America" in an endeavor to reach the peoples of China, Japan, Korea and Southeast Asia as well as India.

Whatever else Mr. Truman had in mind in visiting with General MacArthur, it was a good idea to follow it up with an address that could command world-wide attention on the very subjects which it is American policy to emphasize. It is an excellent example of timing and of publicity value that attaches to an official statement.

Mr. Truman was able also to kill several birds with one stone, so to speak. He was able to assure the Japanese people that a peace treaty is in the offing. That is very important now in preventing Communist propaganda from getting a foothold inside Japan.

Helped U.N. Prestige

The President was able to help the prestige of the United Nations by calling attention to its achievement in resisting aggression in Korea. By making his address in San Francisco where the U.N. was born, Mr. Truman had a chance to dramatize the work of the U.N. and call attention to the progress of that organization since its inception — again, a piece of timely publicity for the U.N., particularly abroad.

What Mr. Truman said about the plans which he and General MacArthur talked over to establish a "unified, independent and democratic" government in Korea is a bit ambiguous because an independent government already exists there which it was Russia's purpose to restrain from governing all Korea. By giving formal assurance that all troops would be withdrawn when peace objectives have been fully attained, the President strives to prevent the communists from making capital out of the prolonged occupation by foreign troops.

Mr. Truman's broad references to rehabilitation of Korea and the aid which the ECA and the U.N. plan to give will have an excellent effect not only inside that unfortunate country but outside, where the communists have been charging that the basic purpose of the U.N. forces is imperialistic.

What the President said in denouncing "communist imperialism" constitutes the first extensive treatment of that subject from a philosophical standpoint that he has broadcast thus far. He points out that the Soviets have embarked on a "new colonialism" by exploiting other peoples. Mr. Truman refers to the "false revolution of communism" and declares that America's national history began "with a revolutionary idea." He calls communism "the most ractionary movement in the world today" and asks the people of Asia to be assured that America knows about the problems of social injustice which have to be solved.

"We believe," he said, "in the family-size farm. That is the basis of our agriculture and has strongly influenced our form of government."

Talks Of Preparedness

Here is an attempt to come to grips with the so-called agrarian issue which has been utilized in Communist propaganda, especially in China. The President calls for "a full partnership with the peoples of Asia" and stresses the traditional role of American missionaries, doctors, teachers, and business men in their ties with Asia. Obviously he means China but doesn't mention that country by name.

To the people of the United States, the President preaches more and more preparedness on the military side. He calls for more production and more armament. He points to the Soviet threat as constant and says that the Russians must give proof of peaceful intentions if the other nations are to reduce armament. His final warning is most important not only to the people who will be called to military service but to business and labor executives who have been wondering what the future of the armament program would be after the Korean war. He said:

"We are going ahead in dead earnest to build up our defenses. There will be no let-down because of the successes achieved in Korea."

The address covered a multitude of objectives, not the least of which was the President's opportunity to give conspicuously an expression of confidence in General MacArthur himself.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Arsenal Of Defense

NO MATTER how excited we become over the prowess and heroism of our troops, the Korean war, as World War I and World War II, has established the fact that the realistic strength of this country lies in its productive capacity. That is our ace in the hole.

This productive capacity is not due to our abundance of raw materials; Russia is richer in that realm. It is due to a combination of management and labor, to the genius of free men, functioning in various capacities in the manufacture of our needs.

The Russians operate under a controlled system, both management and labor being servants of the state. Russian manufactures, even with the assistance of American, German and British managerial skills, were far behind before World War II when the United States poured $11,000,000,000 into that country and gave them our models, plans and managerial skill.

Our great achievement in World War II was in the factory, mill and mine. We so outproduced our enemies that they had no chance. Lloyd W. Hargest, former chief, statistics and reports, and recorder, Army-Navy Production Award Board of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District, has produced a book entitled "To the Unsung Heroes of the Production Front," which tells the full story of the Army-Navy "E" in the Pittsburgh area.

The Army-Navy "E" evolved from the Navy "E," which originated in 1906 and was an award of merit not only to the owners and management of a plant but to the workers. It was an expression of gratitude by the government for excellence of service in the national defense. Mr. Hargest gives the long and complex history of how the Army and Navy joined in providing a unified "E" and it is astonishing how complicated a simple matter can become once the bureaucrats get hold of it.

In the course of the war, most of the outstanding producers of American products were granted the "E" amid exciting ceremonies, some sooner, some later. The CIO and the AF of L got into the picture and apparently were able to bring influence to bear in Washington to favor companies that signed up with them and to withhold or delay the award of the "E" to companies that did not have contracts with them.

Mr. Hargest, in this book, devotes considerable space to the troubles of the Weirton Steel Company, which has not had a strike for 17 years, yet whose workers have not been affiliated with the CIO or the AF or L. Its "E" award was delayed despite its astonishing productivity and record of firsts, entirely because of CIO objections to awarding an independent union that would not strike in time of war. When the award was finally granted, the CIO United Steel Workers claimed the credit for getting it for a union which was not affiliated with it. The union letter on the subject is quoted by Hargest as saying:

"Yet, in spite of the many records made at Weirton, it is to be remembered that the War Production Board refused to act on the award until the company agreed to obey the order of the court to comply with the law protecting the right of workers to join the USA-CIO or any union of their choice. It is to be remembered, also, that it was through the gallant fight of the USA-CIO that the company was forced to comply."

There must be other cases of this nature throughout the United States, but this is the only one reported in this book—instances of the War Production Board and other agencies of government accepting guidance in public matters from the CIO or the AF of L, even in wartime, where all the force of government should be put behind production.

So, we now find that in the midst of war, strikes and threats of strikes continue in various industries. No credit is given those independent unions who refuse to strike.

The deeper we get into the present war, the more serious will become this problem of placing union affiliation before the needs of the country. There is no evidence that the CIO is willing to serve this country, without strikes, disturbances and stoppages as our boys are doing at the front. Nobody strikes in Korea or asks the CIO's permission to fight.

NEW YORK (INS)

THE passing show:

Being a city of limitless resourcefulness, New York gave a party to a freight car the other day, including booze and speeches. At the Waldorf, too. And engraved invitations, already.

It turned out to be a freight whipped up by the Pressed Steel Car Company, after what the man on the private railroad platform beneath the Waldorf whispered was three years of secret planning. We promised not to breathe a word of it.

Except that it's cleaner (the management provided Kleenex for visiting trainmen who wanted to poke around the couplings and hot boxes) the car looks pretty much like other freight cars. But the man said it's the first newly planned freight since 1898. The 1,727,873 freights now in operation on 132 class one U. S. railroads are all 1898 models, he said.

This new one weighs 20 tons less and carries more than other cars of its size. I tried to buy it for the kids but the man said I'd better have another glass of Champagne. Did.

• — • — •

Friend of mine, a Democrat, too, called up the other day and suggested I put a little buzz on President Truman for refusing to let the governor of Hawaii drape a flowered lei around his neck, when he stopped off at Honolulu on the way to the Wake conference with Gen. MacArthur.

My friend said it was an insult to Hawaii, and a political blunder in view of the fact that Hawaii probably will be our 49th state very shortly.

More I thought of it, however, the more I think the Prez was right. The Prez didn't need the gift of a lei to know that he was welcome in the islands. And he knew that he'd be photographed, smothering in flowers, and that it would be in inane contrast to the stern mission he was in the act of performing. One can't quite see MacArthur, let's say, done up in a necklace of small orchids, pretty as the necklace is—and as welcome as it is to carefree visitors to the islands.

My own confidence in the lei, as an institution, was shattered several years ago when I took a group of reporters to the home of a direct descendant of the last queen of the islands. I bought a lei en route and explained the tradition to my pals. But when we arrived at the nice lady's home, and I tried to place it around her neck, she pushed it aside—firmly.

"Nix," she said, "I'm allergic to 'em."

If somebody takes you aside and tells you that an A-bomb is so small that you could stick one in your hip pocket, don't get the notion that these things are whipped up in something the size of a phone booth.

The total land area occupied by the installations of the Atomic Energy Commission now comprises 2,400 square miles—an area larger than the State of Delaware and equal to about half the area of Connecticut.

The operation is spread over 14 states and the proving grounds at Eniwetok in the Far Pacific. Big deal, but it is currently saving our skins.

At least from flash burns.

New York actually has a foundation dedicated to the proposition that all men should wear neckties. It supplies persons like myself with such winsome items as:

The popular Paisley designs were brought to England from Persia by Drake's men in 1580. Mercenary troops from Croatia, fighting for France in the early 1600's, brought the first brightly colored neckpieces to the Western World. The word cravat was coined from their gayly-bedecked croats. The first one to get across the channel to England was worn by Charles II, on his return in 1660 from exile at the French court.

Charles II was an incorrigible tie addict, sometimes paying up to $600 for one—an item which should prompt Swifty Morgan to shoot himself for having been born too late.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

When Whit Burnett, the editor and anthologist, acquired a new home in the suburbs, an unfortunate incident marred the first week of occupancy. Whit and his bride, Hallie, had redecorated the house and made several structural changes as well. Only one thing was missing to make their happiness complete: a baby-grand piano. And two days later Whit found the instrument he had been seeking. "I've bought it," he phoned his wife ecstatically, "and they're delivering it immediately."

• — • — •

Then came the trouble. The door wasn't big enough to permit entry of the piano, nor the stairs wide enough to carry it aloft. Undaunted, Burnett cried, "Tear down a wall of the house. I must have that piano and none other. Its tone is priceless. Get it up to my drawing room and hang the expense." Stoically, he and Halli watched while the newly painted wall of the house was ripped away. That night they retired amidst considerable rubble and confusion—but the piano was where they wanted it, and the wall restored. Early next morning the phone rang. It was the manager of the store where Whit had discovered the precious instrument. "I'm terribly sorry," lamented the manager, "but there's been a mistake made down here. It seems we shipped you the wrong piano."

An all white color scheme was carried out in the arrangement of white chrysanthemums centering the table with candelabra of white tapers at either end. White flowers also were used in the house decorations.

QCS To Hold Final Session

Every card player tonight will be an important one, Albert D. Heacox, president, declares, as all players are striving for a top position in the Queen City Special of the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club, which ends tonight. Play will be in the ball room of the Fort Cumberland Hotel as usual.

There are at least 20 players in the running who can win top awards if they have a high score for tonight, Mr. Heacox said. He explained the two top scores figured on a percentage basis for each session, from September 14 to and including tonight, will be the winners, for it is possible to eliminate the two low scores as only four of the six sessions will count in the final tabulation.

The Duplicate Bridge Club is always open to any bridge player and regardless of whether he has attended any session so far, he is welcome to participate in any Thursday night play.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON is a town where half the people are waiting to be discovered—and the other half are hoping they won't be.

Washington is a town where a hostess can get so social she gets herself a coat-of-arms—with two pairs of pants.

Washington is a town where a Democrat, while visiting a department store, walks up to Santa Claus and asks HIM what HE'D like for Christmas.

AUSTINE

Washington is a town where the usual triangle consists of a girl who's in love with a big-shot, who's in love with himself.

Washington is a town where you feel smarter than the people you're working for, and not as smart as the ones who work for you.

Washington is a town where they have a vaudeville show without music—called Congress.

Washington is a town where the Best Show in Town is the People in Town.

Here's a nutshell of news About People About Town:

The Ambassador from Saudi Arabia, SHEIKH ASAD AL-FAQIH, lying awake at night to worry. . . Not whether the Russians will lap up Arabia's oil, but about his youngest son. . . The kid, an ardent television fan, insists that papa call him "Hopalong" . . . And his Excellency was greeted at the door with a "six-shooter" in his ribs the other night . . . "Reach!" said the little Arabian. "Death is too good for a RAT like you!'

●—●—●

On the dance floor of the Chevy Chase Club GENERAL OMAR BRADLEY waltzing and squeezing a little lady in his arms—Mrs. Bradley.

●—●—●

Naval Operations Chief, ADMIRAL AND MRS. FORREST SHERMAN raving about Philly . . . Last week they went with considerable other top brass from the Capital to launch the S. S. President Adams, luxury liner turned troop ship.

●—●—●

New Ambassador-to-London and MRS. WALTER GIFFORD settling down for a month's stay . . . He's undergoing the usual State Department "briefing" . . . They're both undergoing heavy barrages of entertainment from all sides.

●—●—●

Chairman of the Senate subcommittee investigating organized crime, SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER, admitting "It was a CRIME my plane was late." . . . He wasn't on hand when his baby girl made her debut into the world . . . From the hospital Mrs. Kefauver said the baby looks just like her daddy . . . And Daddy can't wait to show her the new room they added on TOP of their house during the summer.

"We made a mistake and bought a small house," laughed red-haired Nancy Kefauver. "I guess we didn't realize they're cheaper by the dozen!"

●—●—●

A Bachelor to Buttonhole, LORD FAIRFAX, young (27 years) and handsome (I'm told), 13th Baron of Cameron, sending gals into tizzies for miles around . . . But this young British peer, the Conservative Whip in the House of Lords, comes over, not to look over the dolls, but to look over the 1000-acre estate he inherited from his aunt last year.

●—●—●

Wrinkled, wifeless SOMERSET MAUGHAM proclaiming "Women are characters," over Thursday luncheon . . . The ladies of the Women's National Press Club digested his every word with their creamed chicken and peas.

While he's in Washington, Maugham presents the original manuscript of his first attempt to write a successful autobiographical novel . . . It was not, as many might believe, the great "Of Human Bondage" . . . But was entitled "The Artistic Temperament of Stephen Carey."

●—●—●

GEORGE ALLEN, wallowing in compliments for his "Presidents Who Have Known Me" . . . Dedicates his new book to a few friends and associates—500 of them!

●—●—●

PERLE MESTA cold shouldering the show "Call Me Madam" Opening Night . . . Though Perle was game, the inside reason why she would not attend: The State Department advised her against it! Some stuffed shirt thought the show made too light of the Democratic Party's Precious Perle . . . However, she'll sneak in and see the show another night.

The Bachelor Ambassador from Belgium, BARON SILVERCRUYS, tosses a Welcome Home party for Perle next week . . . And friends are teasing the two diplomats about a romance . . . After all, Belgium and Luxembourg are such friendly neighbors.

It takes both an inner and outer glow to win approval in both business and social life.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE impression a woman makes on others at first meeting is created in a flash, but it's not over and done with so quickly; its memory lingers on. "Wish I could see her again," goes its refrain — or, "Remind me to cross the street, when I see her coming."

The first impression can determine the future of your social life; it can be the difference between success and failure in your business life. Consider the case of one "Jane Jones," who applied for a position with the company for which a friend of mine is counsel. As we discussed the subject of this column, he said, "I can illustrate the point with almost any folder taken from our employment files."

Unlucky Jane

The one he drew at random was that of unlucky Jane. Following her name were these notations: "Technically qualified. Inappropriately dressed. Suspect lack of social or school training, experience or home background. Could not make the right impression on our type of personnel. Unsuitable."

Those two words, "Inappropriately dressed", are the keynote to the impression Jane made, and the reason for her rejection.

I know that Jane wanted to make the best impression possible. It was the reason why she wore her best afternoon dress and her beautiful feathered cocktail hat instead of her old tweed suit, in spite of what everyone had told her at business school. She wanted to look nice! And I'm sure she did but for a different occasion, a different time, and a different place.

Because she overlooked these significant considerations, she told one important man, without saying a word, that she lacked judgment, taste and a knowledge of what is appropriate.

What Are Your Chances:

No one wants to take on a social misfit: only the woman who dresses with an eye on the place and the clock throws out the clue that leads others to investigate her personality further. Experience and percentages prove that the woman who has cultivated a sense of fitness in her dress will act with a better sense of fitness in all situations.

There are exceptions, of course. Once in a while one discovers a woman whose inner traits are not as appealing as her appearance promised. But in that case, the lady cannot say that she never had a chance. She at least made the first hurdle.

Why she muffed the second will be explained later. It has to do with not what's on your hat, but with what's in your heart. It takes both an inner and an outer glow to light up your true charm!

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON is a town where half the people are waiting to be discovered—and the other half are hoping they won't be.

Washington is a town where a hostess can get so social she gets herself a coat-of-arms—with two pairs of pants.

Washington is a town where a Democrat, while visiting a department store, walks up to Santa Claus and asks HIM what HE'D like for Christmas.

AUSTINE

Washington is a town where the usual triangle consists of a girl who's in love with a big-shot, who's in love with himself.

Washington is a town where you feel smarter than the people you're working for, and not as smart as the ones who work for you.

Washington is a town where they have a vaudeville show without music—called Congress.

Washington is a town where the Best Show in Town is the People in Town.

Here's a nutshell of news About People About Town:

The Ambassador from Saudi Arabia, SHEIKH ASAD AL-FAQIH, lying awake at night to worry. . . Not whether the Russians will lap up Arabia's oil, but about his youngest son. . . The kid, an ardent television fan, insists that papa call him "Hopalong" . . . And his Excellency was greeted at the door with a "six-shooter" in his ribs the other night . . . "Reach!" said the little Arabian. "Death is too good for a RAT like you!'

●—●—●

●—●—●

Naval Operations Chief, ADMIRAL AND MRS. FORREST SHERMAN raving about Philly . . . Last week they went with considerable other top brass from the Capital to launch the S. S. President Adams, luxury liner turned troop ship.

●—●—●

●—●—●

Chairman of the Senate subcommittee investigating organized crime, SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER, admitting "It was a CRIME my plane was late." . . . He wasn't on hand when his baby girl made her debut into the world . . . From the hospital Mrs. Kefauver said the baby looks just like her daddy . . . And Daddy can't wait to show her the new room they added on TOP of their house during the summer.

"We made a mistake and bought a small house," laughed red-haired Nancy Kefauver. "I guess we didn't realize they're cheaper by the dozen!"

●—●—●

A Bachelor to Buttonhole, LORD FAIRFAX, young (27 years) and handsome (I'm told), 13th Baron of Cameron, sending gals into tizzies for miles around . . . But this young British peer, the Conservative Whip in the House of Lords, comes over, not to look over the dolls, but to look over the 1000-acre estate he inherited from his aunt last year.

●—●—●

Wrinkled, wifeless SOMERSET MAUGHAM proclaiming "Women are characters," over Thursday luncheon . . . The ladies of the Women's National Press Club digested his every word with their creamed chicken and peas.

While he's in Washington, Maugham presents the original manuscript of his first attempt to write a successful autobiographical novel . . . It was not, as many might believe, the great "Of Human Bondage" . . . But was entitled "The Artistic Temperament of Stephen Carey."

●—●—●

GEORGE ALLEN, wallowing in compliments for his "Presidents Who Have Known Me" . . . Dedicates his new book to a few friends and associates—500 of them!

●—●—●

PERLE MESTA cold shouldering the show "Call Me Madam" Opening Night . . . Though Perle was game, the inside reason why she would not attend: The State Department advised her against it! Some stuffed shirt thought the show made too light of the Democratic Party's Precious Perle . . . However, she'll sneak in and see the show another night.

The Bachelor Ambassador from Belgium, BARON SILVERCRUYS, tosses a Welcome Home party for Perle next week . . . And friends are teasing the two diplomats about a romance . . . After all, Belgium and Luxembourg are such friendly neighbors.

It takes both an inner and outer glow to win approval in both business and social life.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE impression a woman makes on others at first meeting is created in a flash, but it's not over and done with so quickly; its memory lingers on. "Wish I could see her again," goes its refrain — or, "Remind me to cross the street, when I see her coming."

The first impression can determine the future of your social life; it can be the difference between success and failure in your business life. Consider the case of one "Jane Jones," who applied for a position with the company for which a friend of mine is counsel. As we discussed the subject of this column, he said, "I can illustrate the point with almost any folder taken from our employment files."

Unlucky Jane

The one he drew at random was that of unlucky Jane. Following her name were these notations: "Technically qualified. Inappropriately dressed. Suspect lack of social or school training, experience or home background. Could not make the right impression on our type of personnel. Unsuitable."

Those two words, "Inappropriately dressed", are the keynote to the impression Jane made, and the reason for her rejection.

I know that Jane wante' to make the best impression possible. It was the reason why she wore her best afternoon dress and her beautiful feathered cocktail hat instead of her old tweed suit, in spite of what everyone had told her at business school. She wanted to look nice! And I'm sure she did but for a different occasion, a different time, and a different place.

Because she overlooked these significant considerations, she told one important man, without saying a word, that she lacked judgment, taste and a knowledge of what is appropriate.

What Are Your Chances:

No one wants to take on a social misfit: only the woman who dresses with an eye on the place and the clock throws out the clue that leads others to investigate her personality further. Experience and percentages prove that the woman who has cultivated a sense of fitness in her dress will act with a better sense of fitness in all situations.

There are exceptions, of course. Once in a while one discovers a woman whose inner traits are not as appealing as her appearance promised. But in that case, the lady cannot say that she never had a chance. She at least made the first hurdle.

Why she muffed the second will be explained later. It has to do with not what's on your hat, but with what's in your heart. It takes both an inner and an outer glow to light up your true charm!

W.Md.Railway's Plan Would Increase B. & O.'s Holdings

The Western Maryland Railway stock holdings of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad would increase from its present ownership of 43.31 per cent to 62.48 per cent if the Western Maryland's capitalization plan is made effective.

The B. & O. owns 167,127 shares or 94.20 per cent of Western Maryland's 7 per cent cumulative first preferred stock, with dividend arrears of $136.50 a share. It also owns 8,000 shares or just over 13 per cent of the Western Maryland's 4 per cent non-cumulative second preferred stock, and 159,050 shares or 29.85 per cent of its $100-par common.

Under the plan the B.&O. would receive in exchange for these holdings: 233,978 shares or 94.20 per cent of the outstanding new 5 per cent first preferred stock, cumulative up to 15 per cent; 169,127 shares or 87.74 per cent of the outstanding new 4 per cent non-cumulative second preferred, and 419,740 shares or 47.93 per cent of the new $25 par common stock.

Dividends Would Jump

The B.&O. has been receiving annual dividends of $7 a share or a total of $1,169,889 a year on its holdings of the present Western Maryland first preferred. If dividends of $5 a share are paid on the new first preferred, $4 on the new second preferred and 50 cents on the common, as hinted in the plan, the B.&O. would receive total annual dividends of $2,056,268 from its Western Maryland holdings, if the recapitalization is effected. This would be an increase of about $886,000.

B.&O. acquired the bulk of its holdings of Western Maryland first preferred stock from the Rockefeller interests back in the 1920's. The 144,789 shares bought from that source cost the road an average of $87.71 a share. For its entire 167,127 shares of Western Maryland first preferred the B.&O. paid an average price of $90.46. That stock recently sold on the market at a record top of $200 a share. It is now quoted around $185.

Plan Submitted

Baltimore and Ohio's holdings of Western Maryland stock, pursuant to a trust agreement created at the order of the ICC in 1932, were delivered to the Chase National Bank of New York, as trustee, together with an irrevocable proxy. Certificates of beneficial interest for the Western Maryland stock are in turn pledged with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee under the indenture securing the B.&O. collateral trust bonds, due 1965, all of which are owned by the R.F.C.

In submitting its plan to the ICC yesterday, the Western Maryland set forth that its principle purpose is to eliminate the accrued dividends aggregating $24,217,830 on the first preferred stock and provide a better opportunity for junior securities to participate in the company's earnings.

To become effective, the proposal requires ICC approval and acceptance by the holders of 75 per cent of each class of stock, or such percentage as the commission may prescribe.

Public Works Board To Consider Survey Funds

The $10,000 grant to the Maryland Planning Commission for a recreational survey of Western Maryland is to be considered by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

This was reported yesterday by Joseph O'C. McCuster, secretary to the board. He said he will meet with Governor Lane today in a effort to call a board meeting within the next week.

State Senators Kimble, Fraley and Sothoron had sponsored Senate Resolution No. 2 calling for this study in the July special session of the General Assembly as a measure to improve economic conditions in Allegany and Garrett county.

The board is to meet to decide if funds are sufficient for the allocation. The meeting had originally been set the last part of September.

Cpl. Ronald Jay Waltz, USMCR, son of Mrs. Maude M. Waltz, Ellerslie, has been wounded in Korea, according to the Department of Defense. He is among 13 Marylanders listed in new casualty reports.

Navy League Fine Suspended

In Police Court yesterday Robert J. Washabaugh, representative of the Navy League Club on North Centre Street, entered a plea of guilty to charges of maintaining gaming devices and was given a suspended sentence.

The defendant and two other club members, James E. Niland and Daniel T. Drew, were fined $400 and costs Monday in Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson on similar gaming charges involving slot machines. They were informed the club should pay the fine.

Milton Gerson, defense attorney, pointed out yesterday morning that the club had paid the fine in higher court and asked for leniency from Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti.

"In view of the fact that they (the club) have suffered already, and since it is their first offense, we ask for a suspended sentence", Gerson said.

Washabaugh, who gave his address as 430 North Centre Street, and Niland were on hand when Gerson filed a guilty plea. The former is a bartender at the club.

Police confiscated two slot machines at the club September 23. Lt. James E. Van led the raiding party and seized the devices after he and Lt. Edwin R. Lilya played them to ascertain if they were in working order.

Later Washabaugh, Niland and Drew were indicted by the grand jury.

Ober Law Retention Favored By K. C.

Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, went on record Tuesday night as favoring the retention of the Ober Law on Maryland's statute books.

Grand Knight Peter J. Carpenti said all members were advised to vote for the referred law.

"Experience Night" will be observed Tuesday at 8 in the council home for candidates who received the second and third degrees last Sunday. A buffet luncheon will follow a special meeting.

The club is mapping plans for a Halloween dance October 31.

The moon not only causes a tidal wave on the side of the earth next to it, but also causes a wave on the opposite side of the earth.

Area Considered For U.S. Buildings

The request of Senator Millard E. Tydings that the Civil Defense Office consider Cumberland as a site for government buildings in the projected program has been acknowledged by the Defense Office.

The program calls for certain agencies to be moved to within commuting distance of the nation's capital in the event of hostilities.

Senator Tydings received the following letter from J. J. Wadsworth, acting director of the Civilian Defense Office, according to David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee for Economic Development:

"The Cumberland area is being considered in the program to decentralize buildings in the Washington Area.

"The question of security of government facilities is at present in discussion stage. If recommendations are developed of interest to the Cumberland area, I will be glad to let you know."

Cumberland and Allegany county are not actually within commuting range in the accepted sense, but Senator Tydings said it is well within the area which may be considered.

Senator Tydings' first contact was made with Maj. Gen. Patrick W. Timberlake, chairman of the National Munitions Board, and he informed the senator that the information was passed on to the three departments of the military and the national Resources Board for consideration.

Don't be HALF-SAFE
by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor.
You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.
As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.
Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.
So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk your happiness with half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid today—only 39¢ plus tax.

W.Md.Railway's Plan Would Increase B. & O.'s Holdings

The Western Maryland Railway stock holdings of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad would increase from its present ownership of 43.31 per cent to 62.48 per cent if the Western Maryland's capitalization plan is made effective.

The B. & O. owns 167,127 shares or 94.20 per cent of Western Maryland's 7 per cent cumulative first preferred stock, with dividend arrears of $136.50 a share. It also owns 8,000 shares or just over 13 per cent of the Western Maryland's 4 per cent non-cumulative second preferred stock, and 159,050 shares or 29.85 per cent of its $100-par common.

Under the plan the B.&O. would receive in exchange for these holdings: 233,978 shares or 94.20 per cent of the outstanding new 5 per cent first preferred stock, cumulative up to 15 per cent; 169,127 shares or 87.74 per cent of the outstanding new 4 per cent non-cumulative second preferred, and 419,740 shares or 47.93 per cent of the new $25 par common stock.

Dividends Would Jump

The B.&O. has been receiving annual dividends of $7 a share or a total of $1,169,889 a year on its holdings of the present Western Maryland first preferred. If dividends of $5 a share are paid on the new first preferred, $4 on the new second preferred and 50 cents on the common, as hinted in the plan, the B.&O. would receive total annual dividends of $2,056,268 from its Western Maryland holdings, if the recapitalization is effected. This would be an increase of about $886,000.

B.&O. acquired the bulk of its holdings of Western Maryland first preferred stock from the Rockefeller interests back in the 1920's. The 144,789 shares bought from that source cost the road an average of $87.71 a share. For its entire 167,127 shares of Western Maryland first preferred the B.&O. paid an average price of $90.46. That stock recently sold on the market at a record top of $200 a share. It is now quoted around $185.

Plan Submitted

Baltimore and Ohio's holdings of Western Maryland stock, pursuant to a trust agreement created at the order of the ICC in 1932, were delivered to the Chase National Bank of New York, as trustee, together with an irrevocable proxy. Certificates of beneficial interest for the Western Maryland stock are in turn pledged with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee under the indenture securing the B.&O. collateral trust bonds, due 1965, all of which are owned by the R.F.C.

In submitting its plan to the ICC yesterday, the Western Maryland set forth that its principle purpose is to eliminate the accrued dividends aggregating $24,217,830 on the first preferred stock and provide a better opportunity for junior securities to participate in the company's earnings.

To become effective, the proposal requires ICC approval and acceptance by the holders of 75 per cent of each class of stock, or such percentage as the commission may prescribe.

Public Works Board To Consider Survey Funds

The $10,000 grant to the Maryland Planning Commission for a recreational survey of Western Maryland is to be considered by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

This was reported yesterday by Joseph O'C. McCuster, secretary to the board. He said he will meet with Governor Lane today in a effort to call a board meeting within the next week.

State Senators Kimble, Fraley and Sothoron had sponsored Senate Resolution No. 2 calling for this study in the July special session of the General Assembly as a measure to improve economic conditions in Allegany and Garrett county.

The board is to meet to decide if funds are sufficient for the allocation. The meeting had originally been set the last part of September.

Navy League Fine Suspended

In Police Court yesterday Robert J. Washabaugh, representative of the Navy League Club on North Centre Street, entered a plea of guilty to charges of maintaining gaming devices and was given a suspended sentence.

The defendant and two other club members, James E. Niland and Daniel T. Drew, were fined $400 and costs Monday in Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson on similar gaming charges involving slot machines. They were informed the club should pay the fine.

Milton Gerson, defense attorney, pointed out yesterday morning that the club had paid the fine in higher court and asked for leniency from Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti.

"In view of the fact that they (the club) have suffered already, and since it is their first offense, we ask for a suspended sentence", Gerson said.

Washabaugh, who gave his address as 430 North Centre Street, and Niland were on hand when Gerson filed a guilty plea. The former is a bartender at the club.

Police confiscated two slot machines at the club September 23. Lt. James E. Van led the raiding party and seized the devices after he and Lt. Edwin R. Lilya played them to ascertain if they were in working order.

Later Washabaugh, Niland and Drew were indicted by the grand jury.

Ober Law Retention Favored By K. C.

Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, went on record Tuesday night as favoring the retention of the Ober Law on Maryland's statute books.

Grand Knight Peter J. Carpenti said all members were advised to vote for the refered law.

"Experience Night" will be observed Tuesday at 8 in the council home for candidates who received the second and third degrees last Sunday. A buffet luncheon will follow a special meeting.

The club is mapping plans for a Halloween dance October 31.

Area Considered For U.S. Buildings

The request of Senator Millard E. Tydings that the Civil Defense Office consider Cumberland as a site for government buildings in the projected program has been acknowledged by the Defense Office.

The program calls for certain agencies to be moved to within commuting distance of the nation's capital in the event of hostilities.

Senator Tydings received the following letter from J. J. Wadsworth, acting director of the Civilian Defense Office, according to David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee for Economic Development:

"The Cumberland area is being considered in the program to decentralize buildings in the Washington Area.

"The question of security of government facilities is at present in discussion stage. If recommendations are developed of interest to the Cumberland area, I will be glad to let you know."

Cumberland and Allegany county are not actually within commuting range in the accepted sense, but Senator Tydings said it is well within the area which may be considered.

Senator Tydings' first contact was made with Maj. Gen. Patrick W. Timberlake, chairman of the National Munitions Board, and he informed the senator that the information was passed on to the three departments of the military and the national Resources Board for consideration.

Don't be HALF-SAFE
by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor.
You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.
As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.
Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.
So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk your happiness with half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid today—only 39¢ plus tax.

Matter Of Fact

Equally, we shall not have this kind of tactical air power unless all the services swallow bitter pills. The Army and Navy will have to swallow the pill of accepting, for a while, an air investment that will seem disproportionate. The Air Force, meanwhile, will have to get down out of the wide blue yonder, and give agonized, concentrated attention to overcoming all the difficulties in the way of maximum air-ground cooperation. Unfortunately, if these pills are not swallowed, and the boldest, most imaginative use is not made of tactical air power, the Western defense problem cannot be solved.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

10 Schools Enter Oratory Contest

The fourth annual county-wide "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce will have ten schools participating, Don Coomber, chairman, announced yesterday.

The schools will select their representatives by October 27, Coomber said, and county eliminations will be held between October 30 and November 6. The county winner will be selected after finalists' talks on the subject "I Speak For Democracy" are recorded and presented over local radio stations.

Judges and the date for the finals will be announced later. Finalists do not appear in person, but recordings of their talks are numbered and judged on that basis.

Schools entered and instructors in charge are: Barton, Paul Footen; Ursuline Academy, Sister M. Marjorie; Central of Lonaconing, Miss Daisy Clive and Miss Esther Holzshu; Allegany, Miss Mary J. Sowerby; Fort Hill, Miss Nellie Willison; LaSalle, Brother D. Basil; Carver, Miss Ruth Franklin; Flintstone, Mrs. Margaret Atkinson; Bruce of Westernport, Margaret Thomas; and SS. Peter and Paul's, Sister Mary Paul.

The local Jaycees are cooperating with the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Broadcasters, United States Office of Education and the National Association of Secondary School Principals in presenting the program.

Last year, Richard Daily, Fort Hill High School senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Daily, 600 Kent Avenue, won the county and state competition and finished among the top winners in the national contest.

The right hand of Mona Lisa, painted by Leonardo da Vinci, is said to be the most perfect hand ever painted.

Walsh To Speak

Walsh will be introduced by Mrs. J. Glenn Beall, chairman of the club's legislative committee which is sponsoring the program.

Diphtheria Shot Work Continues Here Today

The Allegany County Health Department will continue its program of administering diphtheria toxoid to First and Fourth Grade students of county schools today.

The schedule for today follows: John Humbird School, 9:30 a. m.; Virginia Avenue, 10:30 a. m.; Pennsylvania Avenue, 1:30 p. m.; Rockville, 9:30 a. m.; Central, Lonaconing, 9:45 a. m.; Jackson, Lonaconing, 10:30 a. m., and Barton, 1:30 p. m.

Equally, we shall not have this kind of tactical air power unless all the services swallow bitter pills. The Army and Navy will have to swallow the pill of accepting, for a while, an air investment that will seem disproportionate. The Air Force, meanwhile, will have to get down out of the wide blue yonder, and give agonized, concentrated attention to overcoming all the difficulties in the way of maximum air-ground cooperation. Unfortunately, if these pills are not swallowed, and the boldest, most imaginative use is not made of tactical air power, the Western defense problem cannot be solved.

Wife Asks Police To Aid In Finding Missing Mate

City Police have been asked to locate John Budar, 27, husband of Mrs. Grace Budar, Charleroi, Pa., who disappeared from home Sunday. His wife said she received a letter postmarked Cumberland from him.

Budar is five feet, eight inches tall, has brown hair and was wearing a gray suit when he vanished.

10 Schools Enter Oratory Contest

The fourth annual county-wide "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce will have ten schools participating, Don Coomber, chairman, announced yesterday.

The schools will select their representatives by October 27, Coomber said, and county eliminations will be held between October 30 and November 6. The county winner will be selected after finalists' talks on the subject "I Speak For Democracy" are recorded and presented over local radio stations.

Judges and the date for the finals will be announced later. Finalists do not appear in person, but recordings of their talks are numbered and judged on that basis.

Schools entered and instructors in charge are: Barton, Paul Footen; Ursuline Academy, Sister M. Marjorie; Central of Lonaconing, Miss Daisy Clive and Miss Esther Holzshu; Allegany, Miss Mary J. Sowerby; Fort Hill, Miss Nellie Willison; LaSalle, Brother D. Basil; Carver, Miss Ruth Franklin; Flintstone, Mrs. Margaret Atkinson; Bruce of Westernport, Margaret Thomas; and SS. Peter and Paul's, Sister Mary Paul.

The local Jaycees are cooperating with the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Broadcasters, United States Office of Education and the National Association of Secondary School Principals in presenting the program.

Last year, Richard Daily, Fort Hill High School senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Daily, 600 Kent Avenue, won the county and state competition and finished among the top winners in the national contest.

The right hand of Mona Lisa, painted by Leonardo da Vinci, is said to be the most perfect hand ever painted.

Walsh To Speak

William C. Walsh, former attorney general, will speak on "The Constitutional Amendment Freezing Representation in the Maryland Legislature" at a meeting of the Woman's Civic Club today at 2 p. m. in Emmanuel Episcopal Church Parish House.

Walsh will be introduced by Mrs. J. Glenn Beall, chairman of the club's legislative committee which is sponsoring the program.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Tri-Towns May Get Three More Play Centers

Funds To Be Raised For Summer Program

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Three more neighborhood playgrounds will be established if permission from the owners can be obtained, it was decided at a meeting of the Tri-Towns Recreation Association Tuesday at the Piedmont Library.

The three proposed new play sites to be developed would be plot of ground above Poplar Street known as the little ball diamond; ground in rear of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church between Front and Hammond Streets and on Maryland Avenue.

The "Little Ball Diamond" place was suggested for teen agers. They also hope to get the Spruce Street Playground in Westernport in shape for use this year. All of these playgrounds are located in Westernport. It is planned to put some equipment on each one.

The sites would be operated in addition to centers at Piedmont High School Grounds; Water Street and Erin Street Playgrounds all in Piedmont, and the Dixon Park Playground on Oakview, Westernport. There are also playgrounds at Luke, and one at Brophytown, Franklin.

After permission is received for use of new sites, the association plans to organize parents to supervise these places.

Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, a member of the steering committee, presided.

Mrs. Mamolen announced that Mrs. Frank Zeitlin, a member of the steering committee asked to be relieved of her duties and Okey Michael of Westernport, had agreed to take her place.

It was agreed that each month that some entertainment will be held to help raise funds to defray the summer program.

Mrs. John Fredrickson, secretary, announced the association has a balance of $232.33.

Rodney Baker, a co-director, suggested that moving pictures be shown one night a week at each playground for the kiddies. He announced that the Piedmont Parent-Teacher Association had included in their budget $25 to be donated to the Recreation program next year.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 14.

A new book club is being formed and a visit will be made with Miss Shipley at Potomac State school.

A new amendment designates that new members will be taken in June and January. Applications are to be received the previous month.

Mrs. James Getty made contact for Barter Theatre season tickets for the club members. A birthday box will be inaugurated in order to raise funds. Each member will put coins in the box on her birthday according to her age.

Mrs. Anna Mary Phillips, president, appointed a nominating committee for secretary and vice president. They are Mrs. James Getty, chairman; Mesdames Pauline Hamilton, Gerald Reeves, William Main and John Steiding.

Hostesses for next month's meeting are Mrs. William McCormick and Mrs. Aden Miller. The Refreshment committee includes Mesdames Janet Kolish, Ann Foote, Shirley Major, Jean Groves and Idella Chappell. In conjunction with the Maryland Land Week observance a discussion was held on "You Owe Your Land a Living."

Short talks were given by Mesdames Anna Mary Phillips, Pauline Hamilton, Elizabeth Bolyard, Betty and Jo Getty, Ann Foote, Jean Getty and Fermin Forter.

The club will sponsor a Child Study group on the fourth Monday for the next four months.

A tin can party will be held in November. All members are asked to participate. Yearly reports will also be given by committee chairmen.

Baer Receives Prison Term

Carl Lee Baer, Westernport, yesterday was sentenced in Mineral County Circuit Court, Keyser, W. Va., to serve one-to-ten years in the West Virginia State Penitentiary, Moundsville, on two of seven indictments.

Judge Ernest A. See, who presided, said the terms would run concurrently as of yesterday. Judge See said he would "consider" the other five indictments against Baer.

Baer was indicted with William C. McAvoy and Harold Mayhew in the theft of three sheep from Clyde Bonar, four yearling cattle from Albert Swinabart, a furnace from a house owned by John Kuykendall, storage batteries from the Keyser Cement Products Company, and 717 pounds of wool from William Bane, Isaac Whipp and Creed Mott.

Mayhew was sentenced at the last term of court to one to 10 years at Moundsville after pleading guilty. McAvoy will face trial on four indictments Monday. He pleaded not guilty at the last term of court.

In other cases, Carl Leslie Conrad, charged with drunken driving, was passed to the January term. Bond of $500 was furnished. The case of James William Mason on a second offense of drunken driving will be heard Monday.

Charels Davis and Edward Elliott, charged with theft of lead from Potomac State School, Keyser, will be tried Monday. Robert J. Ammons, 20, charged along with three other men held by Maryland authorities, pleaded guilty to a charge of "stripping" cards and was placed on reconnaisance bond with his mother for appearance at the January term when the others involved, Robert Markovitz, William Swondal and Justin Roy, will also be heard.

The cases of Eugene Evans, carried since 1941, and William Blackburn, carried since 1947, were dismissed from the docket.

In other cases, Carl Leslie Conrad, charged with drunken driving, was passed to the January term. Bond of $500 was furnished. The case of James William Mason on a second offense of drunken driving will be heard Monday.

Charels Davis and Edward Elliott, charged with theft of lead from Potomac State School, Keyser, will be tried Monday. Robert J. Appeal To Supreme Court Attacks Ober Law Section

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)— An appeal attacking validity of a section of Maryland's anti-subversive Ober law was filed in the Supreme Court today.

Louis Shub, Baltimore, who wants to run for governor as a Progressive Party nominee, filed the appeal from a recent decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The Maryland court said he must sign a loyalty affidavit, as required by the Ober law, or be kept off the general election ballot on November 7. At the same time the state tribunal said Maryland could not require a similar pledge from a candidate for Congress.

The Attorney General of Maryland is expected to file an appeal later asking the Supreme Court to uphold the Ober law requirement as applying to candidates for federal office as well as for state office.

Connie Mack Resigns As Athletics Manager

Jimmy Dykes Gets Job As A's New Pilot

And into his shoes as manager stepped Jimmy Dykes, 54, star third baseman of the Athletics when Connie Mack's team dominated the baseball picture two decades ago.

At the same time, Art Ehlers, 52, director of the American League club's farm system, was elevated to the position of general manager.

Although the lanky 87-year old leader of the Athletics had been under fire for some time by sports fans as having outlived his usefulness, his resignation came as a surprise. The announcement was made at a press conference.

Will Remain Director

"I am retiring from the active management of the baseball club but will remain as a director," Mr. Mack said.

Actually, he'll retain the office of president with his oldest son, Roy, vice president, and another son, Earle, secretary-treasurer.

Roy and Earle own all of the stock except that in possession of their father. They purchased the stock from Connie Mack, Jr., a half-brother, and the Shibe interests last month as the culmination of a bitter argument within the organization.

Mack became manager of the Athletics when the American League was organized in 1901. A major league catcher in the early days of the sport, Mack directed the Athletics to nine American League pennants and five world championships.

But since the Athletics lost to the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1931 series, they have failed to come through. They finished second the following year and since then have wound up in the first division only twice, in 1933 and 1948.

Team Fell Apart

Mack had hoped to celebrate his golden anniversary of managing with a pennant in 1950 and then announce his retirement but the team's pitching fell apart and it found itself mired in the second division. It finished a badly beaten last.

Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox from 1934 to 1946, succeeded Earle Mack as assistant manager during the past season. At the same time, Mickey Cochrane, former A's star catcher, was made general manager, Cochrane resigned shortly before the end of the season.

Mack was born Dec. 23, 1862, in East Brookfield, Mass. His name then was Cornelius McGillicuddy but sports writers whittled that down to Connie Mack.

He was married twice and is the father of seven children — three sons and four daughters. His first wife died in 1898. He remarried in 1910.

YOU'RE THE BOSS, JIMMY — Connie Mack (right), who retired as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics baseball club, whispers in ear of his successor, Jimmy Dykes, after surrendering the reins to Dykes in Philadelphia yesterday. Dykes, ex-third baseman for the A's and one-time manager of the Chicago White Sox, has recently acted as the club's assistant manager. For the venerable Connie it marked the end of 50 years as head of the Athletics.

Schaffer Resigns Cleveland Position

The 39-year-old executive said "naturally the new regime preferred to build its own organization and I stayed on to help them get started during their first year."

Schaffer was brought here in 1946 when the club was purchased by a group headed by Bill Veeck. Veeck sold out last year and a new regime under Ellis W. Ryan took over.

Repetoire Is Winner

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—Mrs. N. A. Mikell's Repetoire, an invader from New Jersey, ran off from a field of 11 other good 2-year olds in the 38th running of the $10,000-added Remsen Handicap before 22,053 fans at Jamaica race track today.

The fast-stepping son of Happy Argo-My Hattie, with Ken Church in the irons, went to the front at the start and sizzled six furlongs in the sparkling time of 1:11 1-5, best time of the meeting for juveniles.

Repetoire won by one and a half lengths with Mrs. Frances A. Genter's Rough 'N Tumble charging fast in the final eight to take second place away from Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.'s Pictus.

The favored Phantom Farm's Nullify finished fourth.

The victory was the third straight for Repetoire and the colt's fourth purse in nine starts. The victory today was worth $8,575 to his Dover, Del., owner. Church, who had been doing all of his riding in New Jersey, came on with the colt to handle the riding assignment.

Overlooked in the mutuels, Repetoire paid his backers $15.00, $12.60 and $6.00 across the board. Rough 'N Tumble returned $5.70 and $3.90 and Pictus was $5.30 to show.

Eagles Get Awards At RC Banquet

Injured Players Get Playoffs Proceeds

The F. O. Eagles softball team received two trophies last night at a testimonial banquet honoring the team which won the Rocking Chair Softball League championship this year. The dinner was held at the Loyal Order of Moose home, Beall street.

A permanent trophy was presented to Jimmy Angellatta manager of the 1950 champions, by James Bishop in behalf of the Queen City Brewing Company. The Rocking Chair League's rotating trophy, a big bat which goes to the winners each year, was also awarded Angellatta by Roy Whitman, manager of the 1949 championship BPO Elks team.

Dave Kauffman was toastmaster for the affair and called upon representatives of each team to say a few words.

Coaches Bill Hahn and Bobby Cavanaugh of Fort Hill were present and gave short talks with Hahn explaining the difficulty local high schools have in getting a representative football schedule because of the regulations governing high schools in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Schools in those states playing Maryland schools get no recognition for winning an out-of-state game but are discredited if they lose.

The net proceeds of the playoffs went to the Injured Players Fund with eight players receiving benefits from the fund. They were Bill Underdonk, Elks, John Yaider, Goodfellowship Club, Jim Angellatta, Eagles, Charles Fryer, Knights of Columbus, Sam Brady, Outdoor Club, Ike Cessna, Outdoor Club, Ezzie Hahn, Outdoor Club, and Curt Twigg, Amvets.

The Eagles won the championship by defeating the Outdoor Club and the Elks in the playoffs for the championship. Allan Sheetz, Eagles pitcher, was the star of the series.

Volomite, Harness Sire, To Be Retired

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — Volomite, greatest sire in the history of harness racing and daddy of four Hambletonian winners, will be retired from public service and restricted as a private stallion, it was announced today.

In addition, the U. S. Trotting Association reported two other famous standard bred horses, Scotland and Guy Abbey, also have been retired as private stallions.

Scotland, also with four offspring who won the famous Hambletonian trotting classic, is tied with Volomite as the leading sire for this race.

Guy Abbey is the sire of the great grey gelding, Greyhound, world's champion trotter and winner of the 1935 Hambletonian.

All three horses are owned by the Walnut Hall Farm of Mr. and Mrs. H. Willis Nichols, and the Walnut Hall Stud of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Jenney, Lexington, Ky.

Joe Louis Signs To Fight Brion

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, trying a comeback from a comeback that failed, is going to nail 'em early henceforth. That includes champion Ezzard Charles, if and when they meet again.

The long trail back begins at Chicago Stadium Nov. 29 when Louis meets Argentine Cesar Brion whose 10 round bout with the erstwhile Brown Bomber was announced today.

Joe plans "three or four" fights before challenging Charles for a re-match. When Louis said he was "through" after his Sept. 27 pummeling by Charles, it was one of those spontaneous slips he didn't mean.

No, Joe didn't know who he would fight if he beats Brion, a bout in which Joe will get 37½ per cent of the gate and Brion 22½. But the IBA reportedly will have him take on Lee Oma in Detroit and Rocky Marciano in Madison Square Garden.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (INS) — If there is one place where you might expect to find tolerance and fair play, instead of petty jealousy, it is in sports.

And yet these petty jealousies and rancor do exist even among those who are expected to teach sports.

For instance, the other day we heard two minor league coaches talking about Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, Army's erudite and gentlemanly mentor.

One said: "why shouldn't Blaik be a great coach? He's got all the material in the world to work with."

To which the other added: "yeh, both Army and Navy proselyte even more than any of the rest of us. And if any young football star wants to beat the draft the easiest way to do it is go to either West Point or Annapolis and get paid for it."

If those remarks were isolated instances we would pass them by without comment. But all too often lately we have heard much the same things said by others who should know better.

Both Army and Navy draw great physical specimens. Naturally. They want-and get-the cream of the crop. But any boy lucky enough to be received by either institution must be not only a fine physical specimen but also must be a student. And he can never get any trick courses at either service school.

As for the silly idea that a boy might want to enter either Annapolis or West Point to beat the draft, that's simply too ridiculous to dignify with a reply. We don't suppose that MacArthur, Patton, Eisenhower, Bradley, Nimitz, Halsey or any of our other commanders felt they were ducking anything when they entered West Point or Annapolis.

But hustling on to more pleasant topics, we are assured by several college scouts that the annual Army-Navy game this year will be tougher than you might suppose off their current records.

Navy had a terrific freshman team last year and is only now beginning to find itself. By the end of the season it will be ready for any team, including mighty Army.

One famous Army star, not long out of the academy, told us that the big difference between the two squads is speed.

He put it this way: "The Navy squad is just as big, rugged and tough as our West Point boys. But the big difference is in speed. I don't think that the Navy has any one on its squad nearly as fast as several of ours."

But Charley Caldwell, Princeton coach, whose fine team last week beat Navy, disagreed with this view

"Navy," said Caldwell, "looked to me like a team that's just beginning to find itself. It has plenty of speed. Up until now it has failed to get the most out of its natural ability.

"But once that outfit begins to click it is going to cause a few headaches even to such a marvelous team like Army."

Army Center Chosen Best Grid Lineman

Elmer Stout Tops Against Michigan

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—The Michigan Football team didn't have to ask "where's Elmer?" when it played Army last Saturday.

But Elmer Stout, 20-year-old defensive center at the U. S. Military Academy was a hard man to locate today when someone wanted to break the news that he'd been chosen Associated Press college football lineman of the week.

Calling the defensive signals, Stout led the Army gang in tossing back Michigan four times when the Wolverines moved to the shadows of the Cadet goal posts.

He admitted that stopping Michigan's deceptive single wing and buck lateral series in the game at Yankee Stadium was his toughest assignment.

Big Game Season A Short One For Colorado Hunter

CRAIG, Colo., Oct. 18 (AP) — The big game season lasted only 30 minutes for Aubrey Springer.

Sunday he drove his truck to a spot 35 miles southwest of here, parked, took rifle in hand and headed for the timber.

While he was skinning the bear a 700-pound elk appeared and Springer knocked it down with one shot.

He admits he felt a little hysterical when, right after this, a seven-point buck deer loped into view. A single shot took car of it.

All the game was bagged within 200 yards of the truck.

Socrates, the current 7 to 1 favorite, and all of the other horses that have been well backed in prerace betting were kept eligible but four horses that were longshots at the last callover of odds dropped out. These were near Way and Royal Drake at 40 to 1 and Fastone and Shackleton at 50 to 1.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18 (AP)—A missing persons report filed with Phoenix, Ariz., police started a hunt today for Nick O'Brovac, promising 20-year-old guard on the University of Southern California football team.

U. S. C. Coach Jeff Cravath said he understood O'Brovac had left school, but wanted to locate him "to clear his record" so his eligibility would not be impaired if he decided to return later.

He was last seen Sunday night at dinner, school sources said, and indicated then he planned to hitchhike back to Ohio via Phoenix.

Schaffer Resigns Cleveland Position

The 39-year-old executive said "naturally the new regime preferred to build its own organization and I stayed on to help them get started during their first year."

Schaffer was brought here in 1946 when the club was purchased by a group headed by Bill Veeck. Veeck sold out last year and a new regime under Ellis W. Ryan took over.

Repetoire Is Winner

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—Mrs. N. A. Mikell's Repetoire, an invader from New Jersey, ran off from a field of 11 other good 2-year olds in the 38th running of the $10,000-added Remsen Handicap before 22,053 fans at Jamaica race track today.

The fast-stepping son of Happy Argo-My Hattie, with Ken Church in the irons, went to the front at the start and sizzled six furlongs in the sparkling time of 1:11 1-5, best time of the meeting for juveniles.

Repetoire won by one and a half lengths with Mrs. Frances A. Genter's Rough 'N Tumble charging fast in the final eight to take second place away from Mrs. Stephen C. Clark Jr.'s Pictus.

The favored Phantom Farm's Nullify finished fourth.

The victory was the third straight for Repetoire and the colt's fourth purse in nine starts. The victory today was worth $8,575 to his Dover, Del., owner. Church, who had been doing all of his riding in New Jersey, came on with the colt to handle the riding assignment.

Overlooked in the mutuels, Repetoire paid his backers $15.00, $12.60 and $6.00 across the board. Rough 'N Tumble returned $5.70 and $3.90 and Pictus was $5.30 to show.

Eagles Get Awards At RC Banquet

Injured Players Get Playoffs Proceeds

The F. O. Eagles softball team received two trophies last night at a testimonial banquet honoring the team which won the Rocking Chair Softball League championship this year. The dinner was held at the Loyal Order of Moose home, Beall street.

A permanent trophy was presented to Jimmy Angellatta manager of the 1950 champions, by James Bishop in behalf of the Queen City Brewing Company. The Rocking Chair League's rotating trophy, a big bat which goes to the winners each year, was also awarded Angellatta by Roy Whitman, manager of the 1949 championship BPO Elks team.

Dave Kauffman was toastmaster for the affair and called upon representatives of each team to say a few words.

Coaches Bill Hahn and Bobby Cavanaugh of Fort Hill were present and gave short talks with Hahn explaining the difficulty local high schools have in getting a representative football schedule because of the regulations governing high schools in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Schools in those states playing Maryland schools get no recognition for winning an out-of-state game but are discredited if they lose.

The net proceeds of the playoffs went to the Injured Players Fund with eight players receiving benefits from the fund. They were Bill Underdonk, Elks, John Yaider, Goodfellowship Club, Jim Angellatta, Eagles, Charles Fryer, Knights of Columbus, Sam Brady, Outdoor Club, Ike Cessna, Outdoor Club, Ezzie Hahn, Outdoor Club, and Curt Twigg, Amvets.

The Eagles won the championship by defeating the Outdoor Club and the Elks in the playoffs for the championship. Allan Sheetz, Eagles pitcher, was the star of the series.

Scotland, also with four offspring who won the famous Hambletonian trotting classic, is tied with Volomite as the leading sire for this race.

Guy Abbey is the sire of the great grey gelding, Greyhound, world's champion trotter and winner of the 1935 Hambletonian.

All three horses are owned by the Walnut Hall Farm of Mr. and Mrs. H. Willis Nichols, and the Walnut Hall Stud of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Jenney, Lexington, Ky.

Joe Louis Signs To Fight Brion

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, trying a comeback from a comeback that failed, is going to nail 'em early henceforth. That includes champion Ezzard Charles, if and when they meet again.

The long trail back begins at Chicago Stadium Nov. 29 when Louis meets Argentine Cesar Brion whose 10 round bout with the erstwhile Brown Bomber was announced today.

Joe plans "three or four" fights before challenging Charles for a re-match. When Louis said he was "through" after his Sept. 27 pummeling by Charles, it was one of those spontaneous slips he didn't mean.

No, Joe didn't know who he would fight if he beats Brion, a bout in which Joe will get 37½ per cent of the gate and Brion 22½. But the IBA reportedly will have him take on Lee Oma in Detroit and Rocky Marciano in Madison Square Garden.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (INS) — If there is one place where you might expect to find tolerance and fair play, instead of petty jealousy, it is in sports.

And yet these petty jealousies and rancor do exist even among those who are expected to teach sports.

For instance, the other day we heard two minor league coaches talking about Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, Army's erudite and gentlemanly mentor.

One said: "why shouldn't Blaik be a great coach? He's got all the material in the world to work with."

To which the other added: "yeh, both Army and Navy proselyte even more than any of the rest of us. And if any young football star wants to beat the draft the easiest way to do it is go to either West Point or Annapolis and get paid for it."

If those remarks were isolated instances we would pass them by without comment. But all too often lately we have heard much the same things said by others who should know better.

Both Army and Navy draw great physical specimens. Naturally. They want-and get-the cream of the crop. But any boy lucky enough to be received by either institution must be not only a fine physical speciman but also must be a student. And he can never get any trick courses at either service school.

As for the silly idea that a boy might want to enter either Annapolis or West Point to beat the draft, that's simply too ridiculous to dignify with a reply. We don't suppose that MacArthur, Patton, Eisenhower, Bradley, Nimitz, Halsey or any of our other commanders felt they were ducking anything when they entered West Point or Annapolis.

But hustling on to more pleasant topics, we are assured by several college scouts that the annual Army-Navy game this year will be tougher than you might suppose off their current records.

Navy had a terrific freshman team last year and is only now beginning to find itself. By the end of the season it will be ready for any team, including mighty Army.

One famous Army star, not long out of the academy, told us that the big difference between the two squads is speed.

He put it this way: "The Navy squad is just as big, rugged and tough as our West Point boys. But the big difference is in speed. I don't think that the Navy has any one on its squad nearly as fast as several of ours."

But Charley Caldwell, Princeton coach, whose fine team last week beat Navy, disagreed with this view

"Navy," said Caldwell, "looked to me like a team that's just beginning to find itself. It has plenty of speed. Up until now it has failed to get the most out of its natural ability.

"But once that outfit begins to click it is going to cause a few headaches even to such a marvelous team like Army."

Army Center Chosen Best Grid Lineman

Elmer Stout Tops Against Michigan

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—The Michigan Football team didn't have to ask "where's Elmer?" when it played Army last Saturday.

But Elmer Stout, 20-year-old defensive center at the U. S. Military Academy was a hard man to locate today when someone wanted to break the news that he'd been chosen Associated Press college football lineman of the week.

Calling the defensive signals, Stout led the Army gang in tossing back Michigan four times when the Wolverines moved to the shadows of the Cadet goal posts.

He admitted that stopping Michigan's deceptive single wing and buck lateral series in the game at Yankee Stadium was his toughest assignment.

Big Game Season A Short One For Colorado Hunter

CRAIG, Colo., Oct. 18 (AP) — The big game season lasted only 30 minutes for Aubrey Springer.

Sunday he drove his truck to a spot 35 miles southwest of here, parked, took rifle in hand and headed for the timber.

While he was skinning the bear a 700-pound elk appeared and Springer knocked it down with one shot.

He admits he felt a little hysterical when, right after this, a seven-point buck deer loped into view. A single shot took car of it.

Stretch Drive Cops - Beverly By ¾ Lengths

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—H. W. Fincher's Air Attack, under a driving finish from Bobbie Strange, collared the leading Woodford Sir inside the 70-yard post to go on and win by three parts of a length in the Beverly, sixth and featured race at Garden State Park this afternoon.

Joe Culmone got Woodford Sir in front of the field of seven heading into the backstretch and beat off successive challenges by Agrarian-U, Val's Kid and Artist Life to maintain the lead right up to the turn for home.

Then Air Attack pulled up alongside and the two roared past the stands together, with the favored winner covering the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44.1 for a payoff of $6.00, $3.60 and $3.20. Woodford Sir was a safe second by three and a half lengths over Artist Life, with Agarian-U two lengths behind in fourth.

Pauley "Hero" Who Helped To Ditch Wallace

WASHINGTON —(AP)— George E. Allen says Edwin W. Pauley was the "hero" who did more than anyone else to ditch Henry A. Wallace for vice president in 1944.

Allen tells about it in a book published by Simon and Schuster entitled "Presidents Who Have Known Me." He is the portly, joke-cracking Mississippian whose brief stints in public office were overshadowed by his ability to humor Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

He says Pauley, California oil man who was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, was the "original anti-Wallace man in the Democratic Party camp" and picked up recruits as he went along. Finally the Democratic convention of 1944 passed over Wallace and gave Harry S. Truman the vice presidential nomination which led to the presidency.

Allen also lists four others as the main "heroes" in the successful effort to induce the late President Roosevelt to ditch Wallace. They were the late Robert E. Hannegan, then Democratic national chairman; Frank C. Walker, who was postmaster general; Edward J. Flynn, Democratic "boss" of the Bronx, and the late Edwin M. (Pa.) Watson, Roosevelt military aide and secretary.

"They were determined," says the author, "that Roosevelt's successor would not be the boomerang-throwing mystic from the place where the tall corn grows."

Allen says a "commemorative plaque honoring these five politicos should be erected in Potomac Park in Washington, but, of course, it never will be." Why?

"The U. S. Senate, in its wisdom, refused to confirm Ed Pauley for undersecretary of the Navy or Ed Flynn for minister to Australia. It didn't consider them suitable for these high offices.

"Gen. Watson died in the line of duty while returning from the Yalta conference. Walker was preparing to resign his Cabinet post and take over Watson's exalted position as secretary to the President, the better to serve Roosevelt, when the President died.

"Hannegan worked himself to death in the service of the Democratic Party.

"But they were mere politicians—mere practical politicians—and no sculptor will ever be commissioned by a grateful government to chisel heroic statues of them to join Wallace's likeness in marble in he Capitol's Statuary Hall."

Allen says these five men entered into a "sort of informal and idealistic compact to beat Wallace" because all of they realized Roosevelt's health had deteriorated and the man named to run with him would in all probability be the next president.

He writes that for more than a year before the 1944 convention Pauley toured the country raising money for the party and incidentally mobilizing opposition to Wallace.

Pauley then made a deal with Watson to clear the way for anti-Wallace Democrats to see the President when in Washington and to block the way for pro-Wallace Democrats on one pretext or another.

Allen says he went to the convention with Walker and even at that late date they didn't know the President's choice for a running mate; they thought it would be Truman but were not sure.

When Roosevelt wrote a letter in longhand to Hannegan from his Chicago train the Saturday night before the convention he said he would be glad to run with either Truman or William O. Douglas.

"Hannegan and Pauley kept the contents of the letter to themselves until after Roosevelt had accepted his nomination," Allen continues, "with the idea of leaving the Douglas supporters without enough time to take advantage of any chance the Truman-or-Douglas endorsement might give them. This delay worked as intended."

Pauley "Hero" Who Helped To Ditch Wallace

WASHINGTON —(AP)— George E. Allen says Edwin W. Pauley was the "hero" who did more than anyone else to ditch Henry A. Wallace for vice president in 1944.

Allen tells about it in a book published by Simon and Schuster entitled "Presidents Who Have Known Me." He is the portly, joke-cracking Mississippian whose brief stints in public office were overshadowed by his ability to humor Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

He says Pauley, California oil man who was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, was the "original anti-Wallace man in the Democratic Party camp" and picked up recruits as he went along. Finally the Democratic convention of 1944 passed over Wallace and gave Harry S. Truman the vice presidential nomination which led to the presidency.

Allen also lists four others as the main "heroes" in the successful effort to induce the late President Roosevelt to ditch Wallace. They were the late Robert E. Hannegan, then Democratic national chairman; Frank C. Walker, who was postmaster general; Edward J. Flynn, Democratic "boss" of the Bronx, and the late Edwin M. (Pa.) Watson, Roosevelt military aide and secretary.

"They were determined," says the author, "that Roosevelt's successor would not be the boomerang-throwing mystic from the place where the tall corn grows."

Allen says a "commemorative plaque honoring these five politicos should be erected in Potomac Park in Washington, but, of course, it never will be." Why?

"The U. S. Senate, in its wisdom, refused to confirm Ed Pauley for undersecretary of the Navy or Ed Flynn for minister to Australia. It didn't consider them suitable for these high offices.

"Gen. Watson died in the line of duty while returning from the Yalta conference. Walker was preparing to resign his Cabinet post and take over Watson's exalted position as secretary to the President, the better to serve Roosevelt, when the President died.

"Hannegan worked himself to death in the service of the Democratic Party.

"But they were mere politicians—mere practical politicians—and no sculptor will ever be commissioned by a grateful government to chisel heroic statues of them to join Wallace's likeness in marble in he Capitol's Statuary Hall."

Allen says these five men entered into a "sort of informal and idealistic compact to beat Wallace" because all of they realized Roosevelt's health had deteriorated and the man named to run with him would in all probability be the next president.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18 (INS)—Over the long distance telephone from New York Arthur Kennedy promised Hal Wallis to return in time to co-star with Alan Ladd in "Quantrell's Raiders." Arthur, who was so sensationally good in "The Glass Menagerie" and "The Champion," had been called east by the serious illness of his wife's mother.

He's just finished "Lights Out" in which he played the sympathetic role of a blind veteran, and in "Quantrell" he plays a rough, tough Civil War soldier. Versatile, eh?

Speaking of Mr. Wallis, I'd like to say his new picture "September Affair" is a beautiful love story with authentic Italian backgrounds filmed in Florence, Rome and Capri in all their real beauty.

Chit-chat: Judy Garland tells me she treasures her friendship with Carlton Alsop, and that she has never had a harsh word with him. I wouldn't do anything in the world to upset Judy, but at the time she left Hollywood for New York someone very close to her told me she had not been seeing Alsop.

Also, two people in New York said Judy and Alsop did not speak when they met at a theater, but, if Judy says they are still friends, she should know, and we'll let it go at that.

Bob Hope had luncheon with Gen. MacArthur at supreme headquarters on Tuesday. The General asked Bob to extend his tour in Japan for five more days, so wonderful have the morale building results been.

Bob hasn't even been able to reach Korea yet. He has given 32 performances in 32 different places in Japan.

He is transcribing his radio show from Tokyo, and his guest star will be the Bing Crosby of Japan, whose name I don't know and probably couldn't spell if I did. But if he's anything like the real Bingo, he's good.

The very best acting part Robert Walker has had in a long time is in the Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "Strangers on the Train." Bob wanted so much to do it and was delighted when MGM loaned him to Hitchy.

He and Farley Granger will vie for honors in this chiller which is guaranteed, with the Hitchcock treatment, to make anyone afraid to go home in the dark.

A married actress we all know and love very much is being very indiscreet by meeting a well-known actor in public—unless, of course, she doesn't care who knows.

Howard Dietz, who is here for a week on business, dropped in and was immediately surrounded. He stopped to chat with Ezio Pinza.

Ezio tells me he starts "Strictly Dishonorable" November 4, but as yet no leading lady.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Berle goes dramatic.

Yes, sir, Milton Berle is going to portray the role of a killer on the October 12 "suspense" radio program and it should make interesting listening.

Of course, going from his own show to a crime program is hardly any change at all.

Milton has been a comedian ever since he was a kid, and his mother has always been his biggest fan. In fact, his first words to his mother were, "Don't just stand there . . . . start the applause."

The "suspense" show should be a natural for him because every Berle show is packed with suspense. You just sit there enthralled, never knowing which one of your jokes you'll hear next.

Berle is known to get into every act. On this show he'll probably play the killer . . . . the victim . . . . the coroner . . . . the detective . . . . and wind up tracking himself down.

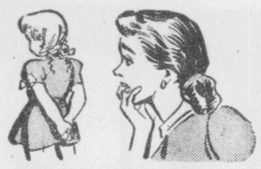
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl believe men's compliments?

Answer: Not uncritically, of course. Telling a girl she is beautiful may be only a "line," not meant to be taken seriously. The best way to judge a man's sincerity is by his behavior as a whole. If a man acts as if he admired you and loses no chance of being with you, it is fair to assume that he means most of the nice things he says about you. But you never can feel quite secure in your belief that you're attractive if you depend wholly on what others tell you; you must dare to feel attractive before anybody can convince you.



May a normal child seem feeble-minded?

Answer: Yes, says Wilson H. Guertin of the Lincoln (Ill.) State School and Colony. Comparing the "growth curves" of two groups of children matched for age, I. Q. on admission, sex, and length of stay at the school, he found that the intelligence of members of one group had increased by 23.7 points as against 3.2 points for the others. His conclusion was that what had appeared to be mental deficiency in the children of the first group must have been merely slow mental maturation due to lack of mental stimulus at home.

Does slandering others feed our egos?

Answer: Yes, say Morris L. Ernst and Alexander Lindey in "Hold Your Tongue," a book dealing with the laws of slander and libel. "Scandal is the food on which the ego thrives and grows sleek. It is an opiate which blurs our vision as to our own shortcomings. It is self-vindication." But the fact is only a sick ego demands such a diet and the effect of it is to give you emotional indigestion. For the moment, we may make ourselves forget our own shortcomings by dwelling on other people's, but inwardly we feel guiltier than ever.

World Art Exhibition Opens In Pittsburgh Today

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — The 1950 International Exhibition of Paintings opens in Pittsburgh October 19 with young and old painters from 11 nations competing.

A total of 360 canvasses will be on display during the two-month exhibition at Carnegie Institute. The exhibitors, interrupted only by world wars, have been held annually for 54 years.

Months of planning and selection precede the showing, which is one of the big art events of the world.

Homer St. Gaudens, Carnegie Institute's director of fine arts, left Pittsburgh in February to devote five months to the selection of paintings from artists' homes, studios, exhibitions and galleries in America and Europe.

A spokesman for the institute said:

"It was a careful search for a balanced group of paintings from each land, not limited to any one trend, but giving each present day tendency its proportionate representation."

A panel of four judges — two Europeans and two Americans—will award a first prize of $2,000, a second prize of $1,000 and a third prize of $800.

Other cash awards will be made including a popular prize of $200—given to the painter whose work prompts the most enthusiasm from the general public.

The 360 paintings are divided into the following national allotments: Great Britain, 52; France, 52; Italy, 35; Germany, 30; Spain, 20; Norway and Sweden, 16 each; Belgium and Holland, 15 each Austria, 17; and the United States, 108.

This year's exhibition, the first since 1939, was made possible by a grant of $225,000 from the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust. The trust was left by a wealthy Pittsburgh banking family.

The fund will cover three exhibitions—this year's, one in 1952 and a third in 1954.

Coeducation Is Burning Issue In Soviet Union

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW—(AP)—The question of separate education or coeducation in Russian schools is a burning issue among Soviet teachers.

The public also has become interested as a result of a series of articles in the Literary Gazette.

Since 1944, there has been separate education for boys and girls in Moscow and in most other large Russian cities. Before that, in the larger cities there was coeducation. In rural schools and in smaller towns the question of separate education has never been introduced.

A major article published by this paper, which has no direct connection with education but is the organ of the Soviet Writers Union, advanced the argument that in socialist society women work beside men all their lives whether in office or factory, and that preparation for getting along together should begin right in school.

It also made the point that separate education burdened facilities unnecessarily by requiring more staffs and buildings for handling an equivalent number of students.

The Literary Gazette asked for comment from teachers and later printed some of the contrasting letters which it received.

Then in an editorial it summed up the results of the debate and said the answers showed that about 98 per cent of those concerned favord a return to coeducation, with only about two per cent for retaining the present system for Moscow and other big cities.

By BOB HOPE

Berle goes dramatic.

Yes, sir, Milton Berle is going to portray the role of a killer on the October 12 "suspense" radio program and it should make interesting listening.

Of course, going from his own show to a crime program is hardly any change at all.

Milton has been a comedian ever since he was a kid, and his mother has always been his biggest fan. In fact, his first words to his mother were, "Don't just stand there . . . . start the applause."

The "suspense" show should be a natural for him because every Berle show is packed with suspense. You just sit there enthralled, never knowing which one of your jokes you'll hear next.

Berle is known to get into every act. On this show he'll probably play the killer . . . . the victim . . . . the coroner . . . . the detective . . . . and wind up tracking himself down.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl believe men's compliments?

Answer: Not uncritically, of course. Telling a girl she is beautiful may be only a "line," not meant to be taken seriously. The best way to judge a man's sincerity is by his behavior as a whole. If a man acts as if he admired you and loses no chance of being with you, it is fair to assume that he means most of the nice things he says about you. But you never can feel quite secure in your belief that you're attractive if you depend wholly on what others tell you; you must dare to feel attractive before anybody can convince you.

May a normal child seem feeble-minded?

Answer: Yes, says Wilson H. Guertin of the Lincoln (Ill.) State School and Colony. Comparing the "growth curves" of two groups of children matched for age, I. Q. on admission, sex, and length of stay at the school, he found that the intelligence of members of one group had increased by 23.7 points as against 3.2 points for the others. His conclusion was that what had appeared to be mental deficiency in the children of the first group must have been merely slow mental maturation due to lack of mental stimulus at home.

Does slandering others feed our egos?

Answer: Yes, say Morris L. Ernst and Alexander Lindey in "Hold Your Tongue," a book dealing with the laws of slander and libel. "Scandal is the food on which the ego thrives and grows sleek. It is an opiate which blurs our vision as to our own shortcomings. It is self-vindication." But the fact is only a sick ego demands such a diet and the effect of it is to give you emotional indigestion. For the moment, we may make ourselves forget our own shortcomings by dwelling on other people's, but inwardly we feel guiltier than ever.

Coeducation Is Burning Issue In Soviet Union

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW—(AP)—The question of separate education or coeducation in Russian schools is a burning issue among Soviet teachers.

The public also has become interested as a result of a series of articles in the Literary Gazette.

Since 1944, there has been separate education for boys and girls in Moscow and in most other large Russian cities. Before that, in the larger cities there was coeducation. In rural schools and in smaller towns the question of separate education has never been introduced.

The Literary Gazette earlier this year questioned whether separate education (introduced on a frankly experimental basis) should be continued at all even where it exists.

A major article published by this paper, which has no direct connection with education but is the organ of the Soviet Writers Union, advanced the argument that in socialist society women work beside men all their lives whether in office or factory, and that preparation for getting along together should begin right in school.

It also made the point that separate education burdened facilities unnecessarily by requiring more staffs and buildings for handling an equivalent number of students.

The Literary Gazette asked for comment from teachers and later printed some of the contrasting letters which it received.

Then in an editorial it summed up the results of the debate and said the answers showed that about 98 per cent of those concerned favord a return to coeducation, with only about two per cent for retaining the present system for Moscow and other big cities.

World Art Exhibition Opens In Pittsburgh Today

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — The 1950 International Exhibition of Paintings opens in Pittsburgh October 19 with young and old painters from 11 nations competing.

A total of 360 canvasses will be on display during the two-month exhibition at Carnegie Institute. The exhibitors, interrupted only by world wars, have been held annually for 54 years.

Months of planning and selection precede the showing, which is one of the big art events of the world.

Homer St. Gaudens, Carnegie Institute's director of fine arts, left Pittsburgh in February to devote five months to the selection of paintings from artists' homes, studios, exhibitions and galleries in America and Europe.

A spokesman for the institute said:

"It was a careful search for a balanced group of paintings from each land, not limited to any one trend, but giving each present day tendency its proportionate representation."

A panel of four judges — two Europeans and two Americans—will award a first prize of $2,000, a second prize of $1,000 and a third prize of $800.

Other cash awards will be made including a popular prize of $200—given to the painter whose work prompts the most enthusiasm from the general public.

The 360 paintings are divided into the following national allotments: Great Britain, 52; France, 52; Italy, 35; Germany, 30; Spain, 20; Norway and Sweden, 16 each; Belgium and Holland, 15 each Austria, 17; and the United States, 108.

This year's exhibition, the first since 1939, was made possible by a grant of $225,000 from the A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust. The trust was left by a wealthy Pittsburgh banking family.

The fund will cover three exhibitions—this year's, one in 1952 and a third in 1954.

Much Ado About Nothing

IN her nationally syndicated column, Hedda Hopper, according to the announcer on her new show (NBC 8:30 p. m. EST Saturdays), "reports on Hollywood to 30,000,000 people here and in thirty countries abroad." Her program, I guess, is designed to plug any loopholes in the republic that may now be uninformed about Hollywood. If you can't read, you you can listen, can't you? There's no excuse for anyone remaining in the dark about Hollywood any longer.

John Crosby

What you'll learn, if Hedda's first program last Saturday is any criterion, will be largely negative.

"Hello, everybody," she declares briskly, "I'm going to let you look over my shoulder while I write my column. Judy Garland, despite rumors, will not take Mary Martin's part in 'South Pacific' when Miss Martin goes abroad. The So-And-So's (I didn't catch the name) will not be reconciled. The big news about Elizabeth Taylor is not that she's having a baby. She's not.." And so on. A great many events of the most earthshaking importance are not taking place in Hollywood these days. It's a form of journalism that has been greatly neglected. Newspapers have always been accused of stressing the murders, the suicides, the bank robberies and ignoring the vast multitudes who don't commit these things. Miss Hopper is filling a niche, telling us all the news that doesn't happen.

Of course, if your thirst for knowledge about the movie people extends even to their non-doings, Hedda's program is easily the best and most elaborate to come along. While Louella and Jimmy run out of breath after fifteen minutes, Hedda— who is assisted by some awfully distinguished people — continues for half an hour. (You'll pardon me for calling all these people by their first names. I don't know any of them well enough to call by their last names.)

In spite of the malarkey she's talking about, Hedda has a sharp and penetrating tongue and is altogether a very bright girl. Each week she plans to have as guests one screen star, one newcomer to the game, and one person prominent in some field outside of movies —if such people exist. She also plans to let the screen stars reply to their critics, including herself.

The first man to do this — and she couldn't have picked a better man for the part — was Humphrey Bogart who harbors strong views on a lot of things. It is Miss Hopper's contention that screen stars are not entitled to private lives of their own, that they belong to their public and they jolly well ought to abide by the morality clause in their contract.

Declared Mr. Bogart spiritedly: "People want actors, not models of propriety. The people in this country are pretty adult. Just because a man plays a monk on the screen, they don't expect him to live in a monastery. After all, this town is built on glamor, I think it's getting a little dull." It's a good thing Bogey is a producer on his own now or he'd be in terrible trouble with the front office for speaking out like that.

After sparring with Mr. Bogart, Hedda whisked us out to the kitchen of Helen Broderick and her son, Broderick Crawford. "Brod's in the kitchen fixing the sink," reported Miss Broderick, after showing Hedda into the livingroom. Some instinct tells me these homey, domestic touches will enter into many of the interviews with the Hollywood great. "Clark's out in the garage greasing the Cadillac." Or "Hedy's in the nursery hemstitching the children." Or "Tyrone's down in the vault counting his money." Anything to put us ordinary folk at our ease.

After a moment of chitchat with Hedda, Miss Broderick called out: "Come in, Brod." And Brod came into the livingroom to the accompaniment of thunderous applause. (Probably keep an audience stationed in the livingroom for emergencies like this.) Anyhow, the interview ended with a reproduction, probably from the sound track, of Mr. Crawford's "I'm a hick" speech from "All The King's Men." Darned good speech, too.

All told, though, Hedda's program is several notches above the others in this curious field. And, since Hedda's powers of persuasion are as well known as her headgear, the guest list, I'm sure, will contain the very biggest names in Hollywood.

"Hello, everybody," she declares briskly, "I'm going to let you look over my shoulder while I write my column. Judy Garland, despite rumors, will not take Mary Martin's part in 'South Pacific' when Miss Martin goes abroad. The So-And-So's (I didn't catch the name) will not be reconciled. The big news about Elizabeth Taylor is not that she's having a baby. She's not.." And so on. A great many events of the most earthshaking importance are not taking place in Hollywood these days. It's a form of journalism that has been greatly neglected. Newspapers have always been accused of stressing the murders, the suicides, the bank robberies and ignoring the vast multitudes who don't commit these things. Miss Hopper is filling a niche, telling us all the news that doesn't happen.

Of course, if your thirst for knowledge about the movie people extends even to their non-doings, Hedda's program is easily the best and most elaborate to come along. While Louella and Jimmy run out of breath after fifteen minutes, Hedda— who is assisted by some awfully distinguished people — continues for half an hour. (You'll pardon me for calling all these people by their first names. I don't know any of them well enough to call by their last names.)

In spite of the malarkey she's talking about, Hedda has a sharp and penetrating tongue and is altogether a very bright girl. Each week she plans to have as guests one screen star, one newcomer to the game, and one person prominent in some field outside of movies —if such people exist. She also plans to let the screen stars reply to their critics, including herself.

The first man to do this — and she couldn't have picked a better man for the part — was Humphrey Bogart who harbors strong views on a lot of things. It is Miss Hopper's contention that screen stars are not entitled to private lives of their own, that they belong to their public and they jolly well ought to abide by the morality clause in their contract.

Declared Mr. Bogart spiritedly: "People want actors, not models of propriety. The people in this country are pretty adult. Just because a man plays a monk on the screen, they don't expect him to live in a monastery. After all, this town is built on glamor, I think it's getting a little dull." It's a good thing Bogey is a producer on his own now or he'd be in terrible trouble with the front office for speaking out like that.

After sparring with Mr. Bogart, Hedda whisked us out to the kitchen of Helen Broderick and her son, Broderick Crawford. "Brod's in the kitchen fixing the sink," reported Miss Broderick, after showing Hedda into the livingroom. Some instinct tells me these homey, domestic touches will enter into many of the interviews with the Hollywood great. "Clark's out in the garage greasing the Cadillac." Or "Hedy's in the nursery hemstitching the children." Or "Tyrone's down in the vault counting his money." Anything to put us ordinary folk at our ease.

After a moment of chitchat with Hedda, Miss Broderick called out: "Come in, Brod." And Brod came into the livingroom to the accompaniment of thunderous applause. (Probably keep an audience stationed in the livingroom for emergencies like this.) Anyhow, the interview ended with a reproduction, probably from the sound track, of Mr. Crawford's "I'm a hick" speech from "All The King's Men." Darned good speech, too.

All told, though, Hedda's program is several notches above the others in this curious field. And, since Hedda's powers of persuasion are as well known as her headgear, the guest list, I'm sure, will contain the very biggest names in Hollywood.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW THEM IN ADVANCE

Certain card combinations that occur and recur with considerable frequency should be known to the ambitious player before he encounters them in actual play. During the stress of the competition, he can not always take the time of the others while he studies the soundest way to treat a particular lineup. In trying to save their minutes, he may make a mistake. Another advantage in knowing frequent combinations in advance is that the player may take his normal amount of time to study other phases of his problem. His thinking starts at a stage where others' only finishes.

	♠ A K 8 ♥ 10 6 4 ♦ K 8 4 ♣ 8 7 6 4
♠ 7 6 4 2 ♥ J ♦ Q 10 5 2 ♣ J 9 3 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 3 ♥ Q 9 7 5 ♦ J 7 6 ♣ K Q 10
	♠ Q 9 5 ♥ A K 8 3 2 ♦ A 9 3 ♣ A 5

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

After the diamond 2 was led to the J and A, South saw that he faced the loss of one trick each in diamonds and clubs, so that his sole responsibility was avoidance of two losers in trumps. Attacking that in the right way, he laid down the A and was pleased to see the J fall. That good fortune made him greedy. Maybe West now would have to put the Q on the K, which would enable South to play the remaining tricks any way he wanted, with the assurance that he would not lose one in trumps. But, when West discarded the spade 2, East was left with two winners, which shortly defeated the contract.

After the J fell, if South had known this type of card combination, he would have realized there was one absolutely sure way to limit the loss to one single trick. It would have been by leading low toward the dummy's 10. If West happened to have the Q, the worry would be ended right there. If West was blank, the 10 would force East's Q. That would leave South a tenace of the K-8 over the 9-7.

South explained after the hand that he would have figured that out if he had been willing to waste the time of the other players. But why waste it? Why not learn such combinations in advance, by getting out a deck of cards, setting up various situations and deciding how to play them? Or else read a good book which presents a lot of them.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ None ♥ None ♦ Q J 10 9 8 7 ♣ A 7 6 5 4 3 2
♠ None ♥ A K ♦ A 6 5 4 3 2 ♣ K Q J 10 9	N W E S	♠ A 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ Q J 10 9 8 ♦ None ♣ 8
	♠ K Q J 10 9 8 ♥ 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♦ K ♣ None

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

If West had previously bid clubs and East spades, what opening lead is indicated for South against East's 3-Hearts doubled?

Stock Market Reaches Its Highest Level In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The stock market reached the peak of a 15-month advance today and the highest level in 20 years.

Not since February 1931, according to the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, has the general price level been so high.

Gains approached $2 a share for favored stocks although most were around $1 a share or less.

The current rally got under way late Monday, put on a head of steam yesterday, and continued today. In the past two days alone well over $1,000,000,000 has been added to the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange.

The two-day advance more than wiped out all of last week's losses, the largest since the week ended July 15.

Trading was the fastest in two weeks with 2,410,000 shares changing hands. This compared with 2,010,000 Tuesday.

Boeing at 37¾ and Douglas at 85¾ were each up 1¾. United Aircraft at 31¼ and Lockheed at 32¾ gained one each while smaller advances were posted for Republic Aviation 12⅛ and Grumann at 32⅞.

Outstanding in the rail department were N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Gulf Mobile & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Studebaker lost an early gain and finished ½ down at 34¼. Also down were Woolworth, Philco, Zenith, Radio Corp., and Twentieth Century-Fox.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

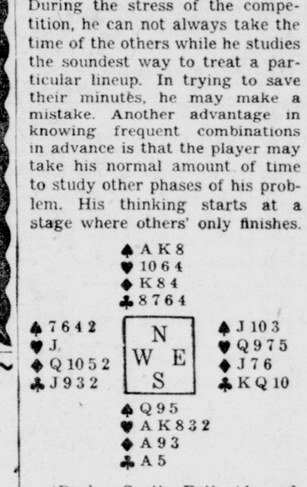
KNOW THEM IN ADVANCE

Certain card combinations that occur and recur with considerable frequency should be known to the ambitious player before he encounters them in actual play. During the stress of the competition, he can not always take the time of the others while he studies the soundest way to treat a particular lineup. In trying to save their minutes, he may make a mistake. Another advantage in knowing frequent combinations in advance is that the player may take his normal amount of time to study other phases of his problem. His thinking starts at a stage where others' only finishes.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable).

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Pass

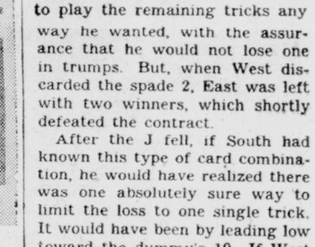
After the diamond 2 was led to the J and A, South saw that he faced the loss of one trick each in diamonds and clubs, so that his sole responsibility was avoidance of two losers in trumps. Attacking that in the right way, he laid down the A and was pleased to see the J fall. That good fortune made him greedy. Maybe West now would have to put the Q on the K, which would enable South to play the remaining tricks any way he wanted, with the assurance that he would not lose one in trumps. But, when West discarded the spade 2, East was left with two winners, which shortly defeated the contract.

After the J fell, if South had known this type of card combination, he would have realized there was one absolutely sure way to limit the loss to one single trick. It would have been by leading low toward the dummy's 10. If West happened to have the Q, the worry would be ended right there. If West was blank, the 10 would force East's Q. That would leave South a tenace of the K-8 over the 9-7.

South explained after the hand that he would have figured that out if he had been willing to waste the time of the other players. But why waste it? Why not learn such combinations in advance, by getting out a deck of cards, setting up various situations and deciding how to play them? Or else read a good book which presents a lot of them.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

If West had previously bid clubs and East spades, what opening lead is indicated for South against East's 3-Hearts doubled?

Stock Market Reaches Its Highest Level In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The stock market reached the peak of a 15-month advance today and the highest level in 20 years.

Not since February 1931, according to the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, has the general price level been so high.

Gains approached $2 a share for favored stocks although most were around $1 a share or less.

The current rally got under way late Monday, put on a head of steam yesterday, and continued today. In the past two days alone well over $1,000,000,000 has been added to the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange.

The two-day advance more than wiped out all of last week's losses, the largest since the week ended July 15.

Trading was the fastest in two weeks with 2,410,000 shares changing hands. This compared with 2,010,000 Tuesday.

Boeing at 37¾ and Douglas at 85¾ were each up 1¾. United Aircraft at 31¼ and Lockheed at 32¾ gained one each while smaller advances were posted for Republic Aviation 12⅛ and Grumann at 32⅞.

Outstanding in the rail department were N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Gulf Mobile & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Studebaker lost an early gain and finished ½ down at 34¼. Also down were Woolworth, Philco, Zenith, Radio Corp., and Twentieth Century-Fox.

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved father, David M. Short, who was killed four years ago today, Oct. 19, 1946, in Germany.

Four years ago today
My heart was broken into,
My mother took me in her arms
And said, "Your daddy's dead."
I knew right then
That he would never return;
But the memory of my daddy
Will always remain with me
And when we meet again away up there,
I'll say to daddy dear:
"We'll never part again."

Sadly missed by
His daughter, Barbara Ann Short

In loving memory of our darling son and brother, Pfc. David M. Short, who was killed in Germany on Oct. 19, 1946.

Four sad and lonely years today have passed
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that night
Some have forgotten, but not us.
On a hill stands a flag for our love that we miss;
The grass died but the love in our hearts never will.
Some day our time will come for the Lord to take us.
It will be happy days for all of us.

Sadly missed by:
Mother, Father, Sister and Brothers

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our gratitude and deep appreciation for the sympathy accorded by our friends and neighbors during the recent passing of our dear one. Those assisting in the customary routine, ministerial handling of the ceremony, donors of cars, food, large number of floral tributes and expressions of sympathy. May God bless you all.
Frank and Walter Anderson,
Birdie Hixenbaugh, Maud and
Annie Rice.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindnesses extended to me during the illness and following the death of my beloved wife, Daisy Mae Bowser. I also wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.
Mr. J. L. Bowser

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved father, David M. Short, who was killed four years ago today, Oct. 19, 1946, in Germany.

Four years ago today
My heart was broken into,
My mother took me in her arms
And said, "Your daddy's dead."
I knew right then
That he would never return;
But the memory of my daddy
Will always remain with me
And when we meet again away up there,
I'll say to daddy dear:
"We'll never part again."

Sadly missed by:
His daughter, Barbara Ann Short

In loving memory of our darling son and brother, Pfc. David M. Short, who was killed in Germany on Oct. 19, 1946.

Four sad and lonely years today have passed
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that night
Some have forgotten, but not us.
On a hill stands a flag for our love that we miss:
The grass died but the love in our hearts never will.
Some day our time will come for the Lord to take us.
It will be happy days for all of us.

Sadly missed by:
Mother, Father, Sister and Brothers

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our gratitude and deep appreciation for the sympathy accorded by our friends and neighbors during the recent passing of our dear one. Those assisting in the customary routine, ministerial handling of the ceremony, donors of cars, food, large number of floral tributes and expressions of sympathy. May God bless you all.
Frank and Walter Anderson,
Annie Rice.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindnesses extended to me during the illness and following the death of my beloved wife, Daisy Mae Bowser. I also wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.
Mr. J. L. Bowser

Miners Hospital Will Install Modern Kitchen

Contract Let To Vandegrift Firm

Work is expected to start soon on the installation of modern kitchen facilities at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, with cost estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000.

This was announced last night by Dr. W. O. McLane, chairman of the board of directors.

Dr. McLane said a contract for the work has been let to the John I. Vandegrift Company, this city.

The State Department of Public Improvements authorized issuance of the contract.

Dr. McLane said the new kitchen will utilize about half of the basement of the Frostburg institution.

The present small kitchen, which measures about eight by 14 feet, is located in another part of the basement.

When work on the new installation is completed, present kitchen space will be used for storage.

Adequate For Future

Dr. McLane said the new kitchen will measure about 40 by 30 feet, representing about 1,200 to 1,500 square feet of space.

No addition to the present staff of four kitchen employes is anticipated, he added.

New kitchen facilities will be adequate to take care of the estimated 100 per cent increase in the institution's capacity when the proposed new addition to the hospital is built.

Dr. McLane said meals are prepared for 75 persons daily at present, and the new kitchen will provide facilities for feeding 150.

The new addition is designed to provide for a 90-bed hospital, Dr. McLane said. The institution now has 48 beds.

Dr. McLane said the board of directors has arranged to meet with the State Planning Commission in Baltimore next Tuesday, October 24.

At that time plans will be reviewed concerning the new addition. The revised plans already have been approved by Gov. William Preston Lane and the Board of Public Improvements.

Dr. McLane recalled that plans were drawn for the new addition and nurses' quarters about two years ago with cost of construction estimated at about $400,000.

Plans Revised

However, Governor Lane last year rejected those plans on the grounds that cost would be too high.

The plans were later revised in an attempt to come within cost limits, but final construction drawings have not been made.

The addition would be a two-story fireproof brick structure.

Because Miners Hospital is a state-owned institution, funds for the construction must be included in an administration bond issue and approved by the State Legislature.

Thus the money could not be available before next July, when the new fiscal year begins, Dr. McLane explained.

Capt. O. L. Livdahl, USN, director of Naval Reserves for the Fifth Naval District, is seen in top photo presenting a certificate of appreciation to William H. Geppert, a member of the Cumberland Naval Reserve Advisory Commission. Looking on are William L. Wilson (left) and Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, both members of the advisory committee. The awards were presented last night at a dinner meeting in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Capt. Livdahl is seen (below) presenting the coveted Fifth District trophy and plaque to Lt. Graydon F. Willard, USNR, Bowling Green, commander of Organized Reserve Surface Division ND5-9. The local division also won the plaque in 1948 and last year placed second among units of the district.

Naval Reserves Regain Fifth District Plaque

Lt. Comdr. Edwards Will Command Unit

Organized Naval Reserve Surface Division ND5-9 was presented the first place plaque and trophy awards last night at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in reward for being the number one Surface Division in the Fifth Naval District for the fiscal year 1950.

The awards were presented by Captain O. L. Livdahl, USN, director of Naval Reserve for the Fifth Naval District.

Congratulating the division on a job "well done," Capt. Livdahl said hew as glad to return the coveted trophy to Cumberland.

The present policy of the Navy Department, he added, is to continue the training program for the Naval Reserve during the present period of expansion of the Navy.

He stressed the important part Naval Reservists are now playing in activating the Navy's "mothball" fleet.

Accepts Trophy

Lieut. Gradon F. Willard, USNR, Bowling Green, division commander of the unit, accepted the trophy and plaque for the division.

In accepting the awards, Lieut. Willard paid tribute to the men of the division for their efforts in returning the trophy to Cumberland for the second time in three years of competition.

It is unfortunate, he said, that the world situation makes it impossible for some members of the division to be present for the acceptance of the awards.

The Division won first place in 1948 and second place in 1949.

The award is based on the general efficiency of the division which includes number of advancements in rating, drill attendance, number of men taking annual training duty cruises, administration, method of instruction and inspections. Twenty-four Organized Surface divisions participated in the competition.

Presents Certificates

After accepting the awards, Lieut. Willard, having received orders to active duty in Norfolk, Va., November 1, was relieved as division commander by Lieut. Comdr. Edwin R. Edwards, USNR, Bedford, Pa.

After the dinner Capt Livhahl presented certificates of appreciation to William L. Wilson, Jr., William H. H Geppert and Edmund S. Burke, of the committee on behalf of Admiral R. O. Davis, USN, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District.

Three other members of the committee, Associate Judge Oliver H Bruce, Jr., H. C. Givens, Jr., and Dr. Charles L. Kopp, were unable to attend.

The Advisory Committee functions as a civilian group to advise and assist the commandant and the inspector-instructor concerning the community.

2nd Trial In Two Days Results In Hung Jury

For the second time in two days a Circuit Court failed to agree upon the disposition of a case.

Louis Nies, found guilty and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Magristrate Thomas Stakem on a charge of failing to support his wife and child, appealed to Circuit Court. He entered a plea of not guilty.

The jurors were unable to agree on the case and were excused by the court.

GOP Committee Backs Passage Of Ober Act

McKeldin Will Head Caravan October 30

The Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County has unanimously endorsed passage of the Ober Act, the state's anti-subversive measure.

The law, passed by the 1949 session of the legislature, goes before the voters in a referendum at the November 7 general election.

After supporting passage of the act in the legislature, the central committee now is anxious to have the measure approved by the voters in the referendum, committee members said.

They also announced that Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican candidate for governor, will head an Allegany county GOP caravan on October 30.

The caravan is scheduled presently to visit most of the communities in the county. Most of the party candidates are expected to take part.

That night, McKeldin will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally in Grantsville, and the following day he will tour Garrett county.

Tonight, in Cumberland, there will be a meeting of all county Republican candidates at 8 o'clock at Republican headquarters in Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Meanwhile, McKeldin said in Baltimore last night that if he is elected governor, he will see to it that the state's laws are revised to "assure an honest, impartial administration of the election machinery."

"None can be expected from a man who places his selfish political ambition first while the public interest winds up a poor second," the Republican nominee said of his Democratic opponent, Governor Lane.

He declared that the Governor's appointees to positions with election boards throughout the state have fulfilled predictions that they "might be a danger to the people."

McKeldin's statement said:

"The people of this state of both parties are entitled to honest elections in which those legally entitled to vote are freely permitted to do so, and the votes honestly counted.

"I pledge revision of the election laws to assure an honest, impartial administration of the election machinery all over this state, and the right of all qualified voters to freely cast their vote for the candidates of their choice."

He spoke of what he termed unfair practices by the Baltimore City Elections Board.

Wilson Elected Chairman Of Housing Group

Bracey To Serve As Vice-Chairman

He succeeds Howard M. Spiker, who completed his one-year term as a board member at yesterday's session at the Housing Authority office in the Clark-Keating Building.

Also elected was Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, who will serve as vice chairman.

Joining the group for the first time was Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, who was sworn into office recently as a member of the Authority for a five-year term.

The group approved a resolution of appreciation to Spiker for his services as the first chairman of the Authority.

The annual meeting convened October 14 but was recessed until yesterday in order to hold the election after Rev. Richardson had assumed membership.

James Beacham and James Perrin were retained as appraisers in preparation for the second phase of the housing project, which will involve construction of 25 housing units.

Plans for the first phase, the building of 125 units in South Cumberland near First Street, are being completed by S. Russ Minter, architect.

Robert MacDonald Bruce and Matthew J. Mullaney were named to handle necessary title work in connection with the 25-unit phase.

Next regular meeting is scheduled November 1.

It is the first time in 75 years that the union's convention has been held outside Baltimore.

Dr. Thomas reported on the association's work during the past year, presenting figures to show that the congregations had more than met their goal of contributing $140,000 to the denomination's world-wide missionary and promotion work.

The total for the year ended September 30 was $170,006. This was $14,861 more than the contributions during the previous fiscal year.

Dr. J. B. Lawrence, secretary-treasurer of the Home Missions Board, outlined the plans his agency has for adding 2,000,000 members to the church in the United States in the next five years.

He reported that it needs 1,027 more missionaries and $6,000,000 for better evangelistic work in this country.

Rev. Boyd H. Moody of the Lee Street Memorial Church in Baltimore gave the report of the Maryland association's home missions committee.

Plastics Firm Plans Expansion

A local plastics firm obtained a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to construct a $3,000 building for expansion of the plant.

Arthur C. Morgan, president of Free State Art Plastics, Inc., said the one-story building will be located on the rear of a lot at 407 East Oldtown Road, which is located across an alley from the present plant at 8 Pennsylvania Avenue.

The new building will be used for the assembly of plastic products, with manufacture to continue in the present plant.

Morgan said the concrete block structure was designed by S. Russ Minter and will measure 37 by 25 feet.

The one-story structure will measure 50 by 70 feet and will be of concrete block and steel construction. Ed Valentine is the contractor and cost is estimated at $5,000.

Red Feather Drive Exceeds Goal By $700

Total Subscriptions Amount To $88,486

Cumberland's Red Feather campaign went over the top yesterday with about $700 to spare, according to reports submitted at a luncheon meeting at Central YMCA.

Audited totals reported last night showed that subscriptions amounted to $88,486.28, or 100.7 per cent of the goal of $87,794.

Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman, celebrated the occasion by going out after the meeting and buying himself a new tie.

It replaced the "Red Feather" tie which he has been wearing for the past two weeks during the campaign.

As a farewell gesture of appreciation, Eiler presented R. A. J. Morrison with a large red feather after campaign reports showed that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad group raised $4,736, or 105 per cent of its goal of $4,500.

Morrison, superintendent of the B. and O.'s Cumberland Division for the past two years, is leaving to assume his new duties as assistant general manager of the Reading Railroad on Friday.

The B. and O. official served as chairman of the budget committee in the Community Chest campaign.

Final reports show that two sections, the women workers in the

Postal Changes Will Expedite Service Here

Some Windows To Close Earlier

Changes in window service and collection service which will expedite the handling of mail here were announced yesterday by Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster.

Effective Monday, general delivery service windows will close at 5 p. m., instead of the present 5:15 p. m.

Parcel post, registry and C.O.D. windows will be closed at 5:30 p. m., instead of 6 p. m. as at present.

Postal officials said that while the changes will affect some few mailers, surveys have disclosed that very few persons use such window service after 5:30 p. m.

The earlier closing, they explained, will result in some economy in operation without injuring service to any appreciable extent.

The time saved by the earlier closing of windows will allow clerks to handle mail during the time and will actually expedite service in general.

Also announced was the elimination of Saturday afternoon mail collections in boxes throughout the

B. And O. Income Up In September

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad estimated today it will show a $1,500,000 net income for September.

Roy B. White, president of the railroad, announced the figure after the monthly board meeting. It will bring the B. & O.'s net for the first nine months of 1950 to $10,000,000, an increase of about $2,500,000 over the comparable period of 1949.

White said the B & O's September revenues were $8,000,000 ahead of September a year ago but there had been an increase in maintenance expenses.

These included the reconditioning of 904 box cars, 1,409 hopper cars, 610 gondolas, 35 passenger cars and 70 locomotives. The B&O also laid 9,651 tons of new rail, 3,669 tons of repair rail, and 152,000 cross ties.

Since July 15, White said, the railroad has taken delivery on 26 diesel switching locomotives, eight passenger diesel units, and 52 freight diesel units.

Baby Sitters Club Meets October 30

The Cumberland Baby Sitters Club, organized last year under auspices of the City Recreation Department, will hold its first fall meeting on Monday, October 30, at 4 p. m. in City Hall.

Present officers are Erminia Warnick, president; Nancy Hamilton, vice president, and Jo Ann Montgomery, secretary-treasurer.

New officers will be elected at the meeting, and rules and bylaws will be revised.

The club numbered about 75 members last year. Lists were made of members available for service in each section of the city, and the lists were sent to parents on request.

Persons interested in serving as advisors to the club are asked to call the Recreation Department office at City Hall.

All youngsters over 13 and adults who are interested in joining the club are invited to attend the October 30 meeting.

Last year several women joined the club, as well as a number of boys. Majority of the members were high school girls.

Maryland Gains 11,000 New Jobs During September

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18 (AP)—The State Employment Security Department reported today a gain of 11,000 jobs throughout Maryland in September as the result of the defense boom and the rush to buy things.

The comparison was with employment levels of July.

The gain had the effect of taking 7,000 persons off the unemployment rolls. Many of those already employed were put on longer work weeks.

Actually there were more than 11,000 new jobs. The total gain was cut down by about 1,800 because of two factors: 1. Several hundred were laid off when the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company completed its job of converting Baltimore and vicinity to natural gas. 2. A strike at Maryland Drydock Company in Baltimore laid off hundreds more. The strike was settled yesterday and the men went back to work today.

The state had 483,500 wage earners in non-agricultural jobs as of the middle of September.

There were 7,000 more jobs in industrial plants—about 4,000 of them in food, fabricated metal, apparel and chemical industries. The machinery industries — machine tools, household appliances, communications equipment — added 1,400.

Almost every other branch of industry showed gains.

Non-manufacturing employment rose by 4,000. About 2,100 of these jobs were in wholesale and retail trade. Federal government employment in Maryland rose by 1,900 in the two months.

The number of jobless as of Sept. 15 was estimated at about 32,600. Some 45 per cent of these were women. About half of them were seeking jobs on assembly lines or at other light factory labor and the demand in these categories has not risen so steeply.

The department observed that women over 40 and teen-agers without high school education usually are turned down.

About ten per cent of the jobless men were classified as never having worked before or too inexperienced to meet qualifications for available jobs. Nearly all the men seeking jobs were classified for semi-skilled and unskilled work.

William H. Mahaney, chairman of the Employment Security Board, summarized the report by saying that the Baltimore area is moving from its "substantial labor surplus" designation of several months ago to a "mild surplus" classification.

Local Youth Is First Here To Make 100 On Navy Test

A Cumberland youth who enlisted in the Navy Friday was the first Navy enlistee in Western Maryland to make a score of 100 per cent on the Armed Forces Qualifying Test.

He is 25-year-old John E. Dicken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dicken, Route 3, Cumberland, according to Edwin V. Rinner, of the local Navy Recruiting Office.

The Armed Forces Qualifying Test is given to everyone who makes application to enter the armed forces, and the passing score is 37 per cent. In this area, Rinner said, the average score is 50 per cent.

Dicken attended Fort Hill High School to grade ten, but he received credit for high school graduation through correspondence courses of the United States Armed Forces Institute.

He served in the Army from December, 1944, to December, 1948, and saw service in Italy and the Pacific. He was a cook and was discharged with the rank of sergeant.

Miners Hospital Will Install Modern Kitchen

Contract Let To Vandegrift Firm

Work is expected to start soon on the installation of modern kitchen facilities at Miners Hospital, Frostburg, with cost estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000.

This was announced last night by Dr. W. O. McLane, chairman of the board of directors.

Dr. McLane said a contract for the work has been let to the John I. Vandegrift Company, this city.

The State Department of Public Improvements authorized issuance of the contract.

Dr. McLane said the new kitchen will utilize about half of the basement of the Frostburg institution.

The present small kitchen, which measures about eight by 14 feet, is located in another part of the basement.

When work on the new installation is completed, present kitchen space will be used for storage.

Adequate For Future

Dr. McLane said the new kitchen will measure about 40 by 30 feet, representing about 1,200 to 1,500 square feet of space.

No addition to the present staff of four kitchen employes is anticipated, he added.

New kitchen facilities will be adequate to take care of the estimated 100 per cent increase in the institution's capacity when the proposed new addition to the hospital is built.

Dr. McLane said meals are prepared for 75 persons daily at present, and the new kitchen will provide facilities for feeding 150.

The new addition is designed to provide for a 90-bed hospital, Dr. McLane said. The institution now has 48 beds.

Dr. McLane said the board of directors has arranged to meet with the State Planning Commission in Baltimore next Tuesday, October 24.

At that time plans will be reviewed concerning the new addition. The revised plans already have been approved by Gov. William Preston Lane and the Board of Public Improvements.

Dr. McLane recalled that plans were drawn for the new addition and nurses' quarters about two years ago with cost of construction estimated at about $400,000.

Plans Revised

However, Governor Lane last year rejected those plans on the grounds that cost would be too high.

The plans were later revised in an attempt to come within cost limits, but final construction drawings have not been made.

The addition would be a two-story fireproof brick structure.

Because Miners Hospital is a state-owned institution, funds for the construction must be included in an administration bond issue and approved by the State Legislature.

Thus the money could not be available before next July, when the new fiscal year begins, Dr. McLane explained.

Capt. O. L. Livdahl, USN, director of Naval Reserves for the Fifth Naval District, is seen in top photo presenting a certificate of appreciation to William H. Geppert, a member of the Cumberland Naval Reserve Advisory Commission. Looking on are William L. Wilson (left) and Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, both members of the advisory committee. The awards were presented last night at a dinner meeting in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Capt. Livdahl is seen (below) presenting the coveted Fifth District trophy and plaque to Lt. Graydon F. Willard, USNR, Bowling Green, commander of Organized Reserve Surface Division ND5-9. The local division also won the plaque in 1948 and last year placed second among units of the district.

Naval Reserves Regain Fifth District Plaque

Lt. Comdr. Edwards Will Command Unit

Organized Naval Reserve Surface Division ND5-9 was presented the first place plaque and trophy awards last night at the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in reward for being the number one Surface Division in the Fifth Naval District for the fiscal year 1950.

The awards were presented by Captain O. L. Livdahl, USN, director of Naval Reserve for the Fifth Naval District.

Congratulating the division on a job "well done," Capt. Livdahl said hew as glad to return the coveted trophy to Cumberland.

The present policy of the Navy Department, he added, is to continue the training program for the Naval Reserve during the present period of expansion of the Navy.

He stressed the important part Naval Reservists are now playing in activating the Navy's "mothball" fleet.

Accepts Trophy

Lieut. Gradon F. Willard, USNR, Bowling Green, division commander of the unit, accepted the trophy and plaque for the division.

In accepting the awards, Lieut. Willard paid tribute to the men of the division for their efforts in returning the trophy to Cumberland for the second time in three years of competition.

It is unfortunate, he said, that the world situation makes it impossible for some members of the division to be present for the acceptance of the awards.

The Division won first place in 1948 and second place in 1949.

The award is based on the general efficiency of the division which includes number of advancements in rating, drill attendance, number of men taking annual training duty cruises, administration, method of instruction and inspections. Twenty-four Organized Surface divisions participated in the competition.

Presents Certificates

After accepting the awards, Lieut. Willard, having received orders to active duty in Norfolk, Va., November 1, was relieved as division commander by Lieut. Comdr. Edwin R. Edwards, USNR, Bedford, Pa.

Prior to the presentation ceremonies at the training center, the officers of the division entertained Capt. Livdahl and members of the Cumberland Naval Reserve Advisory Committee at a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

After the dinner Capt Livhahl presented certificates of appreciation to William L. Wilson, Jr., William H. H Geppert and Edmund S. Burke, of the committee on behalf of Admiral R. O. Davis, USN, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District.

Three other members of the committee, Associate Judge Oliver H Bruce, Jr., H. C. Givens, Jr., and Dr. Charles L. Kopp, were unable to attend.

The Advisory Committee functions as a civilian group to advise and assist the commandant and the inspector-instructor concerning the community.

2nd Trial In Two Days Results In Hung Jury

For the second time in two days a Circuit Court failed to agree upon the disposition of a case.

Louis Nies, found guilty and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Magristrate Thomas Stakem on a charge of failing to support his wife and child, appealed to Circuit Court. He entered a plea of not guilty.

The jurors were unable to agree on the case and were excused by the court.

Thomas Berry handled the case for the defendent and Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, for the state.

GOP Committee Backs Passage Of Ober Act

McKeldin Will Head Caravan October 30

The Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County has unanimously endorsed passage of the Ober Act, the state's anti-subversive measure.

The law, passed by the 1949 session of the legislature, goes before the voters in a referendum at the November 7 general election.

After supporting passage of the act in the legislature, the central committee now is anxious to have the measure approved by the voters in the referendum, committee members said.

They also announced that Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican candidate for governor, will head an Allegany county GOP caravan on October 30.

The caravan is scheduled presently to visit most of the communities in the county. Most of the party candidates are expected to take part.

That night, McKeldin will be the principal speaker at a Republican rally in Grantsville, and the following day he will tour Garrett county.

Tonight, in Cumberland, there will be a meeting of all county Republican candidates at 8 o'clock at Republican headquarters in Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Meanwhile, McKeldin said in Baltimore last night that if he is elected governor, he will see to it that the state's laws are revised to "assure an honest, impartial administration of the election machinery."

"None can be expected from a man who places his selfish political ambition first while the public interest winds up a poor second," the Republican nominee said of his Democratic opponent, Governor Lane.

He declared that the Governor's appointees to positions with election boards throughout the state have fulfilled predictions that they "might be a danger to the people."

McKeldin's statement said:

"The people of this state of both parties are entitled to honest elections in which those legally entitled to vote are freely permitted to do so, and the votes honestly counted.

"I pledge revision of the election laws to assure an honest, impartial administration of the election machinery all over this state, and the right of all qualified voters to freely cast their vote for the candidates of their choice."

He spoke of what he termed unfair practices by the Baltimore City Elections Board.

Wilson Elected Chairman Of Housing Group

Bracey To Serve As Vice-Chairman

He succeeds Howard M. Spiker, who completed his one-year term as a board member at yesterday's session at the Housing Authority office in the Clark-Keating Building.

Also elected was Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, who will serve as vice chairman.

Joining the group for the first time was Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, who was sworn into office recently as a member of the Authority for a five-year term.

The group approved a resolution of appreciation to Spiker for his services as the first chairman of the Authority.

The annual meeting convened October 14 but was recessed until yesterday in order to hold the election after Rev. Richardson had assumed membership.

James Beacham and James Perrin were retained as appraisers in preparation for the second phase of the housing project, which will involve construction of 25 housing units.

Plans for the first phase, the building of 125 units in South Cumberland near First Street, are being completed by S. Russ Minter, architect.

Robert MacDonald Bruce and Matthew J. Mullaney were named to handle necessary title work in connection with the 25-unit phase.

A resolution was approved authorizing amendment of Minter's contract to include the drawing of plans for the second phase.

Next regular meeting is scheduled November 1.

Postal Changes Will Expedite Service Here

Some Windows To Close Earlier

Changes in window service and collection service which will expedite the handling of mail here were announced yesterday by Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster.

Effective Monday, general delivery service windows will close at 5 p. m., instead of the present 5:15 p. m.

Parcel post, registry and C.O.D. windows will be closed at 5:30 p. m., instead of 6 p. m. as at present.

Postal officials said that while the changes will affect some few mailers, surveys have disclosed that very few persons use such window service after 5:30 p. m.

The earlier closing, they explained, will result in some economy in operation without injuring service to any appreciable extent.

The time saved by the earlier closing of windows will allow clerks to handle mail during the time and will actually expedite service in general.

Also announced was the elimination of Saturday afternoon mail collections in boxes throughout the

Maryland Gains 11,000 New Jobs During September

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18 (AP)—The State Employment Security Department reported today a gain of 11,000 jobs throughout Maryland in September as the result of the defense boom and the rush to buy things.

The comparison was with employment levels of July.

The gain had the effect of taking 7,000 persons off the unemployment rolls. Many of those already employed were put on longer work weeks.

Actually there were more than 11,000 new jobs. The total gain was cut down by about 1,800 because of two factors: 1. Several hundred were laid off when the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company completed its job of converting Baltimore and vicinity to natural gas. 2. A strike at Maryland Drydock Company in Baltimore laid off hundreds more. The strike was settled yesterday and the men went back to work today.

The state had 483,500 wage earners in non-agricultural jobs as of the middle of September.

There were 7,000 more jobs in industrial plants—about 4,000 of them in food, fabricated metal, apparel and chemical industries. The machinery industries — machine tools, household appliances, communications equipment — added 1,400.

Almost every other branch of industry showed gains.

Non-manufacturing employment rose by 4,000. About 2,100 of these jobs were in wholesale and retail trade. Federal government employment in Maryland rose by 1,900 in the two months.

The number of jobless as of Sept. 15 was estimated at about 32,600. Some 45 per cent of these were women. About half of them were seeking jobs on assembly lines or at other light factory labor and the demand in these categories has not risen so steeply.

The department observed that women over 40 and teen-agers without high school education usually are turned down.

About ten per cent of the jobless men were classified as never having worked before or too inexperienced to meet qualifications for available jobs. Nearly all the men seeking jobs were classified for semi-skilled and unskilled work.

William H. Mahaney, chairman of the Employment Security Board, summarized the report by saying that the Baltimore area is moving from its "substantial labor surplus" designation of several months ago to a "mild surplus" classification.
